

Contents

List of Tables	vii
Introduction Stewart Asquith	1
1. Preventing Youth Crime in High Crime Areas: Towards a Strategy Jon Bright	24
2. Social Crime Prevention: Juvenile Delinquency Francis Bailleau	43
3. Children's Hearings and Children in Trouble Janice McGhee, Lorraine Waterhouse and Bill Whyte	56
4. The Organisation and Functioning of Juvenile Justice in England and Wales John Graham	73
5. Children and Violence: Trauma in the American War Zone James Garbarino and Kathleen Kostelny	92
6. Female Offenders in Scotland: Implications for Theory Elaine Samuel and Kay Tisdall	102
7. The Community Based Alternative: Intermediate Treatment for Young Offenders Alex Robertson and Derick McClintock	131

8. Secure Units	155
Paul Littlewood
9. Restorative Juvenile Justice: A Way to Restore Justice in Western European Systems?	169
Lode Walgrave
The Contributors	200

List of Tables

6.1	People with charges proved (Scotland 1989-1993)	106
6.2	People with charges proved for crimes (Scotland 1989-1993)	107
6.3	People with charges proved for offences (Scotland 1989-1993)	107
6.4	Number of women with charges proved, by eight most common charges proved against women, in 1989 and 1993 (Scotland 1989 and 1993)	108
6.5	Individuals with at least one charge proved for crimes, petty assault and breach of the peace (Scotland 1993)	110
6.6	Initial police reports for children (Scotland 1989)	111
6.7	Initial police reports for children aged 15 (Scotland 1989)	112
6.8	Initial police reports, by four offences most commonly brought against girls age 15 (Scotland 1989)	113
6.9	Young adults (16-20 years old) with charges proved by main penalty (Scotland 1993)	114
6.10	Young adults (16-20 years old) with charges proved on the five most common main charges proved for young women, by penalties (Scotland 1993)	115
6.11	Young adults (16-20 years old) with a single conviction during the year for crimes, breach of the peace and simple assault (Scotland 1993)	116
6.12	Young adults (16-20 years old) with charges proved on the four most common main charges for young women with a single conviction in the past year, for a crime, breach of the peace or simple assault, by penalties (Scotland 1993)	117
6.13	Initial police reports for 15-year-olds, whose main charges are shoplifting, fraud, serious assault and robbery (Scotland 1989)	119
6.14	Penalties for young people (aged 16-20 years) whose main charges proved are shoplifting, fraud, serious assault and robbery (Scotland 1993)	121
6.15	Young adults (16-20 years old) receiving custody, Community Service Orders or probation, by main charges women are most likely to receive these penalties for (Scotland 1993)	123
6.16	Young adults (16-20 years old) receiving custody, by the four main charges young women are most likely to receive custody for (Scotland 1993)	123
6.17	Offenders given Community Service, by marital status (Scotland 1991)	124
6.18	Offenders referred for Community Service after referral, by age and sex (Scotland 1991)	125
9.1	Coercive measures or punishments, imposed on offending minors	176-7
9.2	Three basic models of reacting to juvenile crime	186