

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction Roger Harrison and Christine Wise	1
Part 1 Defining the field	9
1 Defining good youth work Gina Ingram and Jean Harris	11
2 Ethical conduct in youth work Statement of values and principles from The National Youth Agency	16
3 Common core of skills and knowledge for the children's workforce Extract from DfES Common Core prospectus	26
4 Concepts of youth Jean Spence	46
5 Modernising youth work: from the universal to the particular and back again Simon Bradford	57
6 Challenging practice: a personal view on 'youth work' in times of changed expectations Howard Williamson	70
Part 2 Issues in practice	85
7 Identifying and meeting young people's needs Gina Ingram and Jean Harris	87

CONTENTS

8	Working with people as an informal educator Mary Crosby	95
9	Counselling and the youth support worker role – are these connected? Jane Westergaard	103
10	Handling feelings Neil Thompson	114
11	Working with groups Malcolm Payne	122
12	A social theory of learning Etienne Wenger	142
13	Trouble and tribes: young people and community Jeremy Brent	150
14	Anti-discriminatory practice Neil Thompson	166
15	Thinking about direction Mark Smith	176
	Part 3 Professional development	193
16	Reflective practice Neil Thompson	195
17	'The sum of the parts' – exploring youth working identities Stan Tucker	204
18	Using line management Annmarie Turnbull	213
	Index	225