

Contents

List of Figures	xi
List of Tables	xiii
Foreword by Bill Brunger, Senior VP, Network, Continental Airlines	xv
Foreword by John Elkins, Executive VP, Brand, Marketing, and Corporate Relations, VISA International	xix
Foreword by Samuel L. Katz, Chairman and CEO, Travel Distribution Services, Cendant Corporation	xxiii
Foreword by Stefan H. Lauer, Member of the Executive Board, Lufthansa German Airlines	xxv
Foreword by Andrew Lobbenberg, European Airline Equity Research, ABN AMRO Bank	xxix
Foreword by Kyung Ha Ma, VP, Corporate Strategy and Planning, Asiana Airlines	xxxi
Foreword by Edward Nicol, Director Information Management and CIO, Cathay Pacific Airways	xxxiii
Foreword by Nicole W. Piasecki, Executive VP, Business Strategy and Marketing, Boeing Commercial Airplanes	xxxv
Preface	xxxvii
Acknowledgements	xli
Abbreviations	xlili
1 Introducing the New Pilots	1
Summarizing Customer Behavior Trends	2
Decreasing Homogeneity of the Airline Customer Base	6
The New Business Travelers	6
The New Leisure and VFR Travelers	9
Acknowledging the Customer-Induced Economic Stresses	13
Macroeconomic Factors	13

Decline in Business Travel	15
Pricing Transparency	16
Conclusions	18
2 Taking a Bird's Eye View of the Landscape	21
Recognizing the Successes of Different Aviation Competitors	21
Unconventional Airlines	22
New Conventional Airlines	27
Corporate Jet Services	31
Recognizing the Initiatives of Conventional Airlines	32
Organizational Changes	33
Cost Reductions	34
Marketing Initiatives	36
Long Term Profit Orientation	39
Conclusions	40
3 Designing Viable Business Models	43
Fragmenting and Segmenting the Customer-Driven Marketplace	43
Taking a Fresh Look	43
Business Design Considerations	45
Reevaluating the Strategy	47
Taking a Different Approach	49
Segmentation Strategies	51
Optimizing Fleet for Flexibility and Customer Value	55
Customer Focus	58
Financing Mix	58
Fleet Mix	60
Alliances	64
Aligning the Corporate Culture	66
Fighting the Last War	66
The Changing Competitive Landscape	68
Requirements on Management	69
Conclusions	73

4 Renovating and Innovating Products	77
Revisiting Customer Concerns and Expectations	78
Renovating Existing Products	81
Monitoring Game Changing Competitors	92
Recent Successes	92
New Efforts	97
Seeking and Creating Innovation	100
Conclusions	103
5 Pricing for Mutual Benefit	107
Reviewing Passenger Concerns with Pricing Strategies	108
Perceived Unfairness	108
A Lack of Integrity	110
Price Ratio not Justified by Product Features	112
Sensing Pricing-Related Emerging Forces	113
Real Yield Declining	113
High Fare Traffic Volume Shrinking	115
Fare Structure Changes	117
Impact Spreads to International Markets	120
Customer Wants and Needs in Pricing Design	123
Clarity and Accessibility	123
Stability	123
Fairness	124
Flexibility	124
Accessibility	124
Simplicity	125
Brand Value	125
Other Price vs. Product Tradeoffs	125
Passenger-Aligned Pricing for Profit Maximization	126
Simplicity-Complexity Tradeoffs	126
Value-Based Pricing	129
Revenue Cultivation	130
Conclusions	134

6 Exploiting Distribution Diversity	137
Major Forces Impacting Airline Distribution	138
Passengers	138
Technology	143
Deregulation	151
What Customers Want from the Distribution System	153
Control	154
Credibility and Trust	154
Ease of Access and Use	154
Engagement and Loyalty Considerations	154
Corporate and Group Sales	155
Purpose of Trip	155
Self-Service versus Full Service	155
Financial Protection and Insurance	156
Inventory Control	156
Choice of Channels	156
The Evolving Relationship with Agencies	157
The Growing Focus on Distribution Costs	160
Optimizing Airline Distribution Costs	164
Conclusions	166
7 Developing Truly Integrated Alliances	169
Recognizing Customer Perceptions	170
Consistency Issues	170
Communication and Brand Issues	172
Option Issues	173
Balancing Alliance Benefits	174
Airline Benefits	175
Passenger Benefits	177
Implementing Successful Alliances	178
Cultural Harmony	181
Performance Metrics	182
Willingness to In- and Out-Source	182
Brand Compatibility	183
Coordination within the Value Chain	183

An Example of True Partnerships with a Real Brand:
VISA International	186
Conclusions	190
8 Managing the New Pilots	193
Communicating with Customers on their Problems	193
Traditional Communication Approaches	194
New Communication Approaches	200
Managing Customers as Investments	203
Moving Up the Forgetting Curve	209
Flying Ahead of the Customer	211
Closing Thoughts	212
Index	217
About the Author	223

List of Figures

1.1	Passenger Travel in Premium Cabins	15
1.2	Relationship between the US Airline Industry Revenue and US GDP	17
1.3	Relationship of Revenue of British Airways and the UK GDP	18
2.1	Passenger Traffic and Fare Trends in the Greater Washington-Chicago Market	24
2.2	Impact of a Low Fare Airline Entry on Traffic and Fares	26
2.3	Growth of Ryanair+easyJet and British Airways in and out of the UK	27
2.4	Network of Emirates Airlines (2004)	28
3.1	Conceptual Framework for Segmentation	49
4.1	An Example of the Cabin Layout in an Ultra Long Haul Corporate Aircraft	87
4.2	Virgin Atlantic's Premium Economy Class Seats	89
4.3	An Estimate of the Fare Distribution in Trans-Atlantic Markets	90
4.4	An Estimate of Passenger and Revenue Distribution in Trans-Atlantic Markets	91
4.5	Bundling Simple Products to Needs of Different Customer Segments	93
4.6	Nonstop Service Singapore-New York	95
4.7	Continental's Nonstop Service with 757s	95
4.8	Virgin Atlantic's Upper Class Cabin	96
4.9	Lufthansa's Dedicated Terminal and Transfer to Aircraft at Frankfurt Airport for First Class Passengers	97
4.10	The Importance of Balance between RASM and CASM	103
5.1	The Continuing Decline in Passenger Yield	114

xii Fasten Your Seatbelt: The Passenger is Flying the Plane

5.2	Distribution of Industry Origin-Destination Revenue: US Contiguous 48 State Markets	116
5.3	Distribution of Passengers by Fare Type in the Los Angeles-New York (LaGuardia) Market, 3 rd Quarter 2000 and 2004	117
5.4	Distribution of Passenger Trips by Fare Level	132
5.5	Distribution of Passengers by the Number of Trips	133
6.1	Total Distribution Costs (North America) as a Percentage of Revenue for a Typical US Conventional Major Airline	158
6.2	Current Relationship in the Distribution Chain	162
6.3	Future Relationship in the Distribution Chain	163
7.1	Examples of Alliance Key Success Factors	181
8.1	Investment Criteria in Customers by Value	206
8.2	Current, Future and Potential Value of Customers	207

List of Tables

1.1	Passenger Satisfaction, Passenger Fare and Airline Profitability	14
2.1	Possible Connections in Dubai with Emirates' New York-Dubai Nonstop Flight—March 2005	29
2.2	Possible Connections in Doha with Qatar's London-Doha Nonstop Flight—March 2005	30
2.3	Air Canada's Old Price-Service Options	37
2.4	Air Canada's New Price-Service Options	38
4.1	The Longest Markets Served by Regional Jets	99
5.1	Fare Structure, New York-London, March 2005 (US$)	111
5.2	Passenger Distribution by Fare Type: New York-London—An Estimate	120