

Contents

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| List of Figures  | xi        |
| Acknowledgements   | xii       |
| Prologue   | xiii      |
| 1 Introduction   | 1  |
| What do we mean by 'a social problem'?                              | 2         |
| Defining social work  | 4         |
| Social work, causation and change                                   | 5         |
| Reinvention and the wider context                                   | 7         |
| Overview of the book  | 9         |
| 2 Reinventing Social Work: Key Themes and Tasks              | 13 |
| Development and not aid alone                                       | 18        |
| Social work: beyond the individualisation of social problems        | 21        |
| Social work, social care and change                                 | 21        |
| The UK: our history and the present context for practice            | 22        |
| The USA   | 23        |
| A practice response to fragmentation: a holistic approach           | 25        |
| Reinvention and knowledge-based practice                            | 25        |
| Skills for practice: a synthesis of knowledge, behaviour and values | 27        |
| The whole enterprise: promoting dependable social networks          | 29        |
| 3 Formulating the Task: Aid or Development?                  | 31 |
| Introduction  | 31        |
| Aid and development   | 32        |
| Aid downstream or development upstream?                             | 32        |
| River rescues or upstream work?                                     | 33        |
| Balancing aid and development                                       | 34        |
| Social control  | 36        |
| Power and powerlessness   | 37        |

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| Empowerment   | 38        |
| Managing conflicts  | 39        |
| Gary and Carol's story as an example of identifying and managing conflict   | 39        |
| Conflict resolution   | 43        |
| Negotiations, shared perceptions and conflicts  | 44        |
| The marginal worker   | 44        |
| A mediating role  | 45        |
| Polarisations: beyond illusions of opposites  | 54        |
| Unintended consequences: beyond the good intentions of aid, development and social control                                    | 47        |
| Does the provision of aid, development and social control need expertise or can it just be left to commonsense and good will? | 49        |
| Conclusion  | 50        |
| 4 Mapping the Task and Processes   | 52 |
| Introduction  | 52        |
| A map of the content of social work   | 53        |
| Change agent activity   | 55        |
| Service delivery  | 55        |
| The importance of process and time  | 57        |
| The content of the task using the map   | 58        |
| Mapping the process of social work over time  | 65        |
| Introduction: the spiral of negotiations  | 65        |
| The spiral of negotiations: the process map   | 67        |
| Stages in the spiral of negotiations  | 69        |
| Conclusion: implications for practice   | 80        |
| 5 Social Problems, Social Control and Patterns of Interaction  | 82 |
| Introduction  | 82        |
| Identifying all the key people  | 83        |
| The nature of social problems   | 86        |
| Beyond the individualisation of social problems   | 88        |
| The community: problem and solution   | 88        |
| The idea of community   | 90        |
| People who use services are citizens  | 91        |
| Deviance and social control   | 92        |

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| Norms and their impact on practice   | 93         |
| The pivotal position of social work  | 94         |
| Authority and personal style   | 95         |
| Six premises for understanding patterns of interaction   | 95         |
| Peter and the punctuation of events  | 100        |
| Punctuation and the organisation   | 102        |
| 6 Managing and Mapping Change   | 106 |
| Introduction   | 106        |
| The theory of change and practice  | 107        |
| Social workers move in an environment of different definitions and perceptions of the reality of social situations   | 108        |
| The formulation of a problem is always a joint enterprise between workers and other people                           | 109        |
| Assessment, intervention and service delivery are essentially the same enterprise                                    | 109        |
| To achieve change, it is often necessary to reframe the problem  | 110        |
| Alternative behaviour has to be demonstrated   | 110        |
| Resources often have to be reallocated   | 111        |
| First- and second-order change   | 111        |
| Mapping change   | 113        |
| The foundations of change: what changes and what stays the same?   | 114        |
| Planning through the Innovation Trinity  | 117        |
| Negotiations between key people: individual, family, social network, community and/or inter-organisation development | 125        |
| Feedback and monitoring the consequences of change   | 128        |
| Conclusion   | 129        |
| 7 Assessment and Intervention   | 131 |
| The task   | 131        |
| Alternative models   | 132        |
| The Questioning and Procedural Models  | 133        |
| The Exchange Model   | 135        |

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| The Questioning and Exchange Models of assessment compared                           | 138        |
| The Procedural Model of assessment   | 141        |
| The contribution and limits of the Procedural Model                                  | 144        |
| Which model to choose?   | 145        |
| Models of assessment and conflicts of interest                                       | 146        |
| Assessment of individual need or the social situation?                               | 146        |
| The dependability of social networks   | 147        |
| Beyond the purchasing of care  | 147        |
| The Exchange Model of assessment and practice  | 148        |
| The Exchange Model and professional expertise  | 151        |
| Summary and implications for practice  | 152        |
| 8 Overcoming Blocks to Change   | 154 |
| Introduction   | 154        |
| Self-fulfilling prophecies   | 156        |
| Definitions  | 156        |
| Self-defeating strategies  | 157        |
| Conflict and self-defeating strategies   | 159        |
| Self-defeating strategies and teams  | 160        |
| Solutions as problems  | 161        |
| Mutually defeating interactions: the unambiguously helpful worker                    | 163        |
| The consequences of the mechanism of the panel                                       | 164        |
| Dominant actors, dominant perceivers and the role of perception                      | 167        |
| Deviancy   | 168        |
| Behaving as if predictions are true: contingency planning, openness and trust | 169        |
| Contingency plans and the impact of negative 'as if' behaviour                       | 170        |
| Practice implications  | 171        |
| Managing multiple perspectives to avoid self-defeating strategies                    | 171        |
| The behaviour of workers and change: eight principles                                | 172        |
| Conclusion: towards the positively marginal worker                                   | 176        |

|           |  |            |
|-----------|--|------------|
| 9  | Independence and Marginality                                    | 178 |
|           | Marginality  | 178        |
|           | Marginality and marginalisation  | 178        |
|           | Marginality and the Jones family                                       | 179        |
|           | Balancing expectations, needs and responsibilities                     | 180        |
|           | The key elements of marginality  | 182        |
|           | The worker's behaviour   | 182        |
|           | What the worker needs to demonstrate                                   | 182        |
|           | The capacity to ask key questions                                      | 183        |
|           | Identifying perspectives on social problems                            | 184        |
|           | The capacity to ask the question, 'who is the service user'?           | 186        |
|           | Marginality, partnership and deviance                                  | 186        |
|           | Competence in practising marginality                                   | 187        |
|           | What knowledge contributes to marginality                              | 188        |
|           | Marginality and respect  | 188        |
|           | Marginality, worker stress and independence of mind                    | 190        |
|           | Creative use of expertise  | 190        |
|           | Knowing from within  | 191        |
|           | Conclusion   | 192        |
| 10 | Core Skills: The Joining Skills                                 | 194 |
|           | Skills and tasks   | 194        |
|           | Core skills as the foundation  | 195        |
|           | The joining skills   | 196        |
|           | Empathy  | 196        |
|           | Empathy and the Jones family   | 198        |
|           | Empathy and negotiation  | 198        |
|           | Empathy and Patrick's family   | 199        |
|           | Empathy and the worker's desire for information: the Questioning Model | 199        |
|           | Empathy and questioning  | 201        |
|           | Consistent empathy: an 'unsocial' behaviour                            | 201        |
|           | Empathy and socio-cultural difference                                  | 203        |
|           | Authenticity and genuineness   | 204        |
|           | Authenticity and trust   | 205        |
|           | Authenticity and the Jones family                                      | 206        |
|           | Authenticity, marginality and change                                   | 206        |
|           | Authenticity and modelling   | 207        |

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| Authenticity and Patrick's family                     | 208        |
| Authenticity and difference                           | 208        |
| Authenticity and partnership                          | 209        |
| Authenticity and respect                              | 210        |
| Authenticity and self-awareness                       | 210        |
| 11 Core Skills: The Intervention Skills        | 212 |
| Social entrepreneurship                               | 212        |
| The individual worker, the team and the whole task    | 213        |
| Creating partnerships                                 | 214        |
| Social entrepreneurship and the Jones family          | 215        |
| Social entrepreneurship and Patrick's family:         |            |
| entrepreneurial flexibility in the division of labour | 216        |
| Entrepreneurial problem solving                       | 217        |
| Entrepreneurial reframing of the problem              | 217        |
| Social entrepreneurship and the enabling manager      | 218        |
| Competition and collaboration                         | 219        |
| Three-way partnerships                                | 219        |
| Reflection  | 220        |
| Commonsense and practice                              | 223        |
| Accountability of practice                            | 223        |
| Reflection and partnership                            | 224        |
| How reflection was used in Patrick's family           | 225        |
| Challenging   | 226        |
| Elements of challenging                               | 227        |
| Reframing   | 229        |
| Reframing and the nature of social problems           | 230        |
| Elements of reframing                                 | 231        |
| Reframing and patterns of problem definition          | 232        |
| Conclusion  | 233        |
| 12 Epilogue                                    | 234 |
| Overview  | 234        |
| The social work task: key assumptions                 | 235        |
| Bibliography                                   | 239        |
| Index of Names                                 | 250        |
| Index of Subjects                              | 253        |

List of Figures

|     |                                      |     |
|-----|--------------------------------------|-----|
| 4.1 | The content map of social work tasks | 58  |
| 4.2 | Mapping the specific tasks           | 58  |
| 4.3 | The spiral of negotiations           | 66  |
| 6.1 | Mapping the key players              | 118 |
| 6.2 | Mapping the key roles                | 120 |
| 6.3 | Mapping the impact on relationships  | 121 |
| 6.4 | Managing Change Through Innovation   | 129 |
| 7.1 | The Questioning Model                | 134 |
| 7.2 | The Exchange Model                   | 135 |
| 7.3 | The Procedural Model                 | 141 |