

Table of Contents

Foreword: The IEA and China	3
Executive Summary	7
Chapter One: Domestic Origins of China's Search for Energy Abroad	13
A Perspective on the Chinese Economy	14
Energy and the Economy	16
The Energy System: History and Projections	18
Energy Demand	18
Energy Supply	22
The Energy Delivery Infrastructure	31
The New Institutional Setting	35
Energy Prices: A Key to Reform	39
A Summing Up	42
Chapter Two: China's Shifting Ties in the Energy World	45
Introduction: Whither Chinese Policy?	45
Covering All Possibilities	46
Strategic Reserves	48
Evolving Oil Trade Patterns: The Search for Secure Supply	49
Foreign Investment: In and Out	54
Inward Investment	54
Offshore Oil	58
Investing in Foreign Energy	60
Trade, Investment and Diplomacy in the Search for Energy Security	62
Chapter Three: What it All Means. What Next?	71
China in the System	71
Is China Different?	74
Some Implications for Linkage Patterns	74
Appendix: Data on China's Oil and Overall Trade	77
Bibliography	81