

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
1 The Dimensions of the Issues	1
Defining the problem of child sexual abuse	3
Being the victim of child sexual abuse	3
The need for more research on the effectiveness of treatment and outcomes	4
The challenge of providing therapy	5
Summary	6
2 The Therapist's Clinical Skills	7
The central task of the therapeutic process: acceptance and integration of the sexual abuse experience	8
The therapeutic relationship	9
Functions of the therapist	14
Summary	20
Exercise	21
3 Beginning Phases of Treatment	22
Referral source and information	23
Safety and protection of the child	23
Confidentiality	25
The assessment process	26
Establishing the therapeutic relationship	30
Obtaining a history of the abuse	30
The child's relationship with the abuser and disclosure	31
Addressing the child's feelings of guilt and responsibility for the abuse	33
Summary	39
4 The Therapist's Experience of Working with Abused Children	40
Taking care of yourself (the therapist)	41
Emotional demands and countertransference	42

viii Therapeutic Work with Sexually Abused Children

Hypersensitivity to child sexual abuse	46
Countertransference issues for the therapist who is a survivor of sexual abuse	46
Support for the therapist	48
Summary	49
Exercise	50
5 Children in Society, Cultural Considerations, and Alternative Care Provision	51
Children in society	51
Sensitivity to cultural issues	53
Special considerations when working with children placed in substitute care	58
Summary	64
6 Carer Involvement	65
Initial goals of partnership and liaison work	65
The child's history	68
The child's symptoms	68
Assessment of parenting skills	69
Typical carer responses	70
Carer functioning and responsiveness	74
The therapist's ongoing relationship with the carers	74
The social worker's role	74
Summary	75
Exercise	76
7 Theoretical Considerations	77
Identification of the child's development	78
Piaget's developmental theory	79
Erikson's psychosocial theory	79
The importance of attachment and the therapeutic process	80
Summary	88
8 Common Symptomology	90
Somatic complaints and bodily concerns	91
Sleep disturbances	92
Performance at school	94
Fear/anxiety and feelings of powerlessness	95
Depression	97
Anger	98
Acting out or aggressive behaviour	100
Regression	102
Low self-esteem and poor sense of self	102

Summary	103
Exercise	104
9 Sexualized Behaviour, Substance Abuse, and Eating Disorders	106
Sexualized behaviour	106
Use of alcohol or drugs	112
Development of eating disorders	112
Summary	113
10 The Child's Coping Styles and Defence Mechanisms	114
The child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome	115
Hypervigilance	116
Anxiety	117
Defence mechanisms and coping styles	117
The diagnosis of post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD)	119
Dissociation	121
The role of sexual abuse in the formulation of MPD and DID	122
Summary	126
Exercise	127
11 Tools of the Therapeutic Process	129
Is the child able to verbalize feelings about the abuse?	130
Techniques used	130
Why are creative methods effective?	131
Child-centred therapy	133
Guidelines for assessing and observing the child during play	135
Individual therapy or group treatment?	140
Summary	147
Exercise	148
12 Liaison with Agencies and Services: Professional Work within Child Protection Procedures and Courts	149
Child protection procedures: a brief overview	150
Legislation, principles, and codes of practice	151
Safeguarding children	152
Investigating suspected 'significant harm': collecting possible 'evidence'	154
The child's view of the process	156
The child as a court witness	157
The therapist's roles in the legal setting	157
Child protection and court involvement: the effects on the child	161

x	Therapeutic Work with Sexually Abused Children
	Formal communication and report writing	161
	Summary	162
13	The Grieving Process and the Termination of Therapy	165
	Losses and grieving	166
	The termination phase of treatment: central considerations and tasks	168
	Evaluation of the process	171
	Normalizing regression and boundaries	172
	The loss of the therapist	172
	The final session	175
	Summary	176
	Exercise	176
	Epilogue	178
	Appendix 1: Answers to the exercise on coping styles and defence mechanisms (Chapter 10)	179
	Appendix 2: Worksheets (see Chapter 11)	180
	References	185
	Index	193