

CONTENTS

Introduction 1

1 Four Stages of Cultural Growth: The American City 12

2 All the World a Melting Pot? Japan at American Fairs, 1876–1904 29

3 Museums, Merchandising, and Popular Taste: The Struggle for Influence 56

4 A Historical Perspective on Museum Advocacy 82

5 Cultural Institutions and American Modernization 96

6 Great American Fairs and American Cities: The Role of Chicago's Columbian Exposition 111

7 Museums: The Hidden Agenda 132

8 Utopian Fiction and Its Discontents 150

9 The Drama of Consumer Desire 174

10 John Philip Sousa and the Culture of Reassurance 198

11 Who Owns Our Myths? Heroism and Copyright in an Age of Mass
Culture 233

12 Collective Possession: J. Pierpont Morgan and the American Imagination
250

13 The Changing Landscape

Spaced Out at the Shopping Center 278

Living with Lobbies 288

Parking the Garage 297

14 Iconography and Intellectual History: The Halftone Effect 30415 Color and Media: Some Comparisons and Speculations 318*16 Pictorial Perils: The Rise of American Illustration 337*17 Designs on Demand: Art and the Modern Corporation 349

Notes 379

Illustration Credits 433

Index 435