
CONTENTS

Series Foreword	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
1 Defining the Problem	1
Introduction	1
What is meant by child sexual abuse?	3
2 Incidence and Prevalence	7
Apparent discrepancies in the data	8
Intrafamilial abuse	16
3 The Relationship between Sexual and Physical Abuse	23
Child sexual abuse compared with child physical abuse	25
Is child abuse increasing?	29
4 The Evidence Factor	32
Disclosure	33
Interview evidence	34
Psychological indicators	35
Medical assessment	36
Risk factors	39
5 The Effects of Abuse	40
Initial reactions	41
Long-term trauma	44
6 Prevention: Child-centred Approaches	48
Direct-approach prevention programmes	50
Role-play techniques	55
Simulated encounters	56
The facilitation of disclosure	57
Investigating strategies used by child molesters and identifying vulnerable behaviour	59
Reactions to programme presentation	60

Contents

7 Protecting Children from Sexual Abuse	64
Who are the perpetrators?	65
Why should anyone want to abuse children?	67
Were child molesters themselves victims of abuse?	69
Why is it mainly men who molest children?	69
The persistent child molester	70
Do adults do enough to protect children?	72
Summary conclusions and recommendations	73
Postscript	75
References	76
Index	86