

CONTENTS

Foreword by Howard Newby	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xxiii
Map	xxiv
1 Introduction: Old and new themes in the sociology of community	1
The meanings of 'community'	3
Inclusion and exclusion	7
From community studies to studies of communities and localities	13
Personal troubles, public issues and community change	18
2 The ways things were: Community life in past generations	24
Occupational communities	26
The social hierarchy of 'traditional' working-class communities	32
Rediscovered dimensions of past community life	37
3 The restructuring of communities: The impact of economic change	45
Unemployment, social isolation and the persistence of traditions	47
Social polarisation, privatisation and beyond	55

	The economic significance of women's social networks	61
4	Moving in and moving on: The significance of geographical mobility	67
	The problematic process of becoming accepted as a 'local'	70
	Geographical mobility and conflicts over resources	77
	Pressures to leave and pressures to stay	84
5	Ethnicity, solidarity and exclusion: Race and spatial social segregation	90
	Zones, ghettos and the meaning of 'segregation'	93
	Migrant networks, cultural preference and encapsulation	101
	Social policy and the reproduction of segregation	107
6	Home ownership and home life: Changing ideals of housing and domesticity	112
	Housing classes and the rise of home ownership	115
	Gender differences in the experience of home life	123
	The changing meaning of 'private' and 'public' property and space	129
7	Remaking communities: Urban redevelopment and community action	133
	The pursuit of 'balanced' communities	136
	Urban managerialism and beyond	141
	The bases of community action	147
8	Community and social policy: Care and control	154
	Engineering the community	157
	Community control	161
	The community in community care	166

9	Conclusions: The continuing importance of the sociology of community	177
	Network perspectives	178
	Community boundaries and social identities	184
	A future for community studies?	191
	References	197
	Index	223