

Contents

List of tables	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Preface	ix
1 Unemployment and the restructuring of work	1
The nature of long-term unemployment	1
Some characteristics of the unemployed	3
Employment, unemployment and labour market theory	7
Barriers in the labour market	14
The social and economic construction of long-term unemployment	16
Labour market and labour process flexibilities and the rise in unemployment	20
Summary	24
2 Long-term unemployment and local labour market geographies	27
The geographical unevenness of unemployment	27
Local deprivation	37
People versus place problems and policies	49
Local labour market barriers: a theoretical breakthrough or a circumnavigation ?	51
3 Investigating long-term unemployment	53
Labour market research techniques	55
Bradford study methodology	58
Establishing baseline conditions for the long-term unemployed in Bradford	64

4 Economic restructuring and the Bradford labour market	67
Regional restructuring and the Bradford economy	67
Bradford's evolving demographic profile	69
The Bradford housing market and ethnic segregation	72
Bradford's changing economic structure	74
The changing labour market in Bradford	77
Long-term unemployment in Bradford and District	79
The three study areas	80
Holmewood	80
Keighley	85
Manningham	86
Has Bradford bounced back?	89
5 Labour market institutions in Bradford	91
The mainstream labour market institutions	93
Local agencies dealing with the long-term unemployed	102
Summary of grassroot agency issues	107
Conclusion	109
6 The community discussion panels	111
Introduction	111
The Holmewood Panel	114
The Keighley Panel	121
The Manningham Panel	126
Summary	131
7 Individuals in the labour market	133
The questionnaire and the survey	134
The sample	135
Qualifications	137
Work experience	139
Barriers to training and employment	143
Overview	156
8 Summary and Conclusion	159
Follow-up interviews	159
Local policy development	165
Summary of findings and policy implications	169
Conclusion	171
Bibliography	173

List of tables

4.1	Employees by industry group, 1974-1989	75
4.2	Employment in major firms in key sectors, by HQ location, 1989	75
4.3	Economic characteristics of working age population, 1991	78
4.4	Semi- and unskilled workers by ward, 1981	83
4.5	Unemployment by post code area, April 1991	83
4.6	Unemployment rates by ward, April 1991	83
4.7	Economic activity and unemployment rates by ward, 1991	84
7.1	Sample distribution by sex and by area	136
7.2	Sample distribution by age and by area	136
7.3	Duration of unemployment	136
7.4	Ethnic composition of Manningham sample	138
7.5	Housing status by area	138
7.6	Possession of qualifications by area, sex and race	140
7.7	Position immediately prior to becoming unemployed	140
7.8	Nature of previous job	142
7.9	Reasons for leaving previous job, by area	142
7.10	The job search process	145
7.11	Spatial patterns of job search	145
7.12	Type of work sought	147
7.13	Occupation of desired job	147
7.14	Previous and desired work status	149
7.15	Attributes of desired job	149
7.16	Barriers to training	152
7.17	Barriers to employment	153
7.18	Perceptions of recruitment criteria and respondents' attributes	154
7.19	Perceptions of employers' recruitment criteria by sex	154
7.20	Desirable factors in job search, by gender	155
7.21	Factors hindering job search, by gender	155