

Contents

Conference participants	page ix
List of tables and figures	xiii
Preface	xv
Part I: Introduction	1
1 Offender-patients: the people nobody owns Herschel Prins	3
Part II: Future directions for psychiatric services and mental health law	9
2 Future pattern of psychiatric services Douglas Bennett	11
Discussion	18
3 Future directions for mental health law Sir John Wood	23
Discussion	36
4 A criminological perspective – the influence of fashion and theory on practice and disposal: life chances in the criminological tombola Jill Peay	41
Discussion	55
Part III: Perspectives on future needs	59
5 The mentally abnormal offender in the era of community care Tony Fowles	61
6 New directions for service provision: a personal view Paul Bowden	78
Discussion	85
7 Defining need and evaluating services John Wing	90
Discussion	98
8 Black people, mental health and the criminal justice system Deryck Browne, Errol Francis and Iain Crowe	102
Discussion	113
	vii

9	A view from the probation service	Graham Smith	118
10	A view from the prison medical service	Rosemary Wool	127
11	A view from the courts: diversion and discontinuance	Philip Joseph	135
	Discussion		142
	Part IV: Planning and implementing new services		147
12	A view from the private sector	Mike Lee-Evans	149
	Discussion		161
13	Case management	Geoff Shepherd	166
	Discussion		175
14	A view from the Department of Health	John Reed	177
	Discussion		186
	Part V: A concluding review		189
15	Future directions for research	William Watson	191
	Refences		201
	Tables of cases		211
	Index		213

List of tables and figures

Tables

- 5.1 Prison population and mental hospital residents, 1962–1986
- 5.2 Receptions to prison and admissions to mental hospitals, 1962–1986
- 5.3 Prison population and mental hospital residents by sex, 1962–1986
- 5.4 Receptions to prison and admissions to mental hospitals by sex, 1962–1986
- 6.1 Mentally diseased inmates and prison populations in 1934 (Penrose, 1939)
- 6.2 Mentally diseased inmates and crime rates (Penrose, 1939)
- 7.1 Number of people, per 100 000 US population, resident in specific types of institution on decennial census days from 1950 to 1980
- 7.2 Areas of functioning that might be problematic
- 7.3 List of possible interventions available for those rated as having a problem related to ‘active psychotic symptoms’
- 7.4 Audit of care and services provided
- 7.5 Rundown to closure of Darenth Park Hospital – first phase
- 7.6 Rundown to closure of Darenth Park Hospital – summary of changes
- 11.1 Demographic characteristics of 80 consecutive defendants in psychiatric court liaison scheme
- 11.2 Offences with which 80 consecutive defendants were charged
- 11.3 Primary diagnosis of the sample: psychiatric court liaison scheme
- 11.4 Medical recommendations for the sample: psychiatric court liaison scheme
- 12.1 Admissions to Kneesworth House Hospital, September 1985–December 1989: primary reason for admission

- 12.2 Admissions to Kneesworth House Hospital, September 1985–August 1989: source of admission over time
- 12.3 Admissions to Kneesworth House Hospital, September 1985–August 1989: legal status
- 12.4 Departures from Kneesworth House Hospital, September 1985–December 1989

Figures

- 5.1 Prison population and mental hospital residents in England and Wales, 1962–1986
- 8.1 Antecedents to contacts between black people and psychiatric services
- 8.2 Mentally disordered offenders: a decision-making framework
- 10.1 Psychiatric reports by medical officers
- 10.2 Psychiatric reports by medical officers
- 10.3 Court orders arising from prison medical officers' reports
- 12.1 Kneesworth House Hospital: departures, September 1985–December 1989
- 12.2 Kneesworth House Hospital: resident patients, 31 December 1989