

Contents

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |          |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|
| Preface .....                                                                                                                                                                                                     | XI       |
| Alfred X. Trautwein                                                                                                                                                                                        |          |
| A Coordination-chemical Aspects of Metal Transport, Metal Selectivity and Metal Storage .....                                                                                                              | 1 |
| Introduction .....                                                                                                                                                                                                | 3        |
| Günther Winkelmann                                                                                                                                                                                         |          |
| 1 Molecular and Functional Aspects of Cu Transport: Cu(I) Thionein and CuZn Superoxide Dismutase and their Structural and Functional Analogs ..                                                                   | 5        |
| Ulrich Weser                                                                                                                                                                                               |          |
| 2 The Complex Formation in the Ternary System Iron(II)/L(+)-ascorbic Acid/Endogeneous Phosphate and its Possible Role in Iron Absorption in the Intestine .....                                                   | 17       |
| Wolfgang Jabs, Rolf Ulrich Arpert                                                                                                                                                                          |          |
| 3 The Biomineralization of Magnetite in Magnetic Bacteria .....                                                                                                                                                   | 24       |
| Dirk Schüler, Edmund Bäuerlein                                                                                                                                                                             |          |
| 4 Nickel Metabolism in Alcaligenes eutrophus : Uptake by a Ni <sup>2+</sup> -specific Permease and Metal Insertion into the Hydrogenases .....                                                             | 37       |
| Thomas Eitinger, Lutz Wolfram, Jens Dornedde, Ingo Wolf, Nadja Patenge, Bärbel Friedrich                                                                                                                   |          |
| 5 Ferrioxamine B Uptake in Yersinia enterocolitica .....                                                                                                                                                   | 51       |
| Andreas Bäumler, Klaus Hantke                                                                                                                                                                              |          |
| 6 Transport of Iron(III) Hydroxamates across the Cytoplasmic Membrane of Escherichia coli .....                                                                                                            | 56       |
| Wolfgang Köster                                                                                                                                                                                            |          |
| 7 Biomimetic V(III) Complexes – Interplay between Electronic and Stereochemical Features and Consequences on Redox Potentials, Complex Stability as well as Tendencies towards Aggregation in Aqueous Solution .. | 69       |
| Roland Meier, Martin Boddin, Steffi Mitzenheim                                                                                                                                                             |          |

|          |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |            |
|----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 8        | Modelling Electrochemical Properties of Iron Containing Enzymes and Siderands . . . . .                                                                                                                | 98         |
|          | Rolf W. Saalfrank, Andreas Dressel, Stefan Drummer, Alfred X. Trautwein, Volker Schünemann, Harald Krautscheid, Gerhard Baum, Jörg Daub, Stefan Hien                                            |            |
| 9        | Stereoselective Recognition of Microbial Iron Chelates (Siderophores) . . . . .                                                                                                                        | 108        |
|          | Günther Winkelmann                                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| B | Metal-nucleic Acid and Protein-Metal-nucleic Acid Interaction; Medical Aspects . . . . .                                                                                                        | 119 |
|          | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                 | 121        |
|          | Bernhard Lippert                                                                                                                                                                                |            |
| 1        | Studies into the Mode of Action of trans -HInd[RuCl <sub>4</sub> (ind) <sub>2</sub> ] and trans -HIm[RuCl <sub>4</sub> (im) <sub>2</sub> ] . . . . .                                     | 123        |
|          | Bernhard K. Keppler, Thomas Pieper                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| 2        | Modelling Ternary Metal Ion-Protein-nucleic Acid Complex Formation . . . . .                                                                                                                           | 129        |
|          | Bernhard Lippert, Ingo Rombeck, Sybille Höhmann                                                                                                                                                 |            |
| 3        | Encapsulation of the Transition Metal Compounds Carboplatin (CP) and Lobaplatin (LP) in Different Types of Liposomes and their Physico-chemical, Biochemical and Biological Characterization . . . . . | 145        |
|          | Regina Reszka, Iduna Fichtner, Silvia-Renate Goan, Michael Rudolph, Roland Winter                                                                                                               |            |
| 4        | The Molecular Interaction of Novel Dinuclear bis -Platinum Complexes with DNA . . . . .                                                                                                         | 167        |
|          | Hildegard Büning, Janina Altman, Wolfgang Beck, Haralabos Zorbas                                                                                                                                |            |
| C | Structure and Function of Metal Centers in Proteins and Enzymes . . . . .                                                                                                                       | 185 |
|          | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                 | 187        |
|          | Heinrich Rüterjans                                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| 1        | The Diversity of Metal Centers in Ribonucleotide Reductases. Studies of the Bacterial Manganese Enzyme . . . . .                                                                                       | 189        |
|          | Georg Auling, Klaus Blasczyk, Ulrich Griepenburg, Jens Hansen, Chuan-Hao Luo, Wulf Oehlmann                                                                                                     |            |
| 2        | The Diversity of Metal Requirements in Ribonucleotide Reduction. In Search of New Enzymes . . . . .                                                                                                    | 204        |
|          | Hartmut Follmann, Claus Bornemann, Ulrich Griepenburg, Dirk Stallmann                                                                                                                           |            |
| 3        | Iron and Cobalt-containing Enzymes in Anaerobic Glutamate-fermenting Bacteria . . . . .                                                                                                                | 217        |
|          | Wolfgang Buckel                                                                                                                                                                                 |            |

|    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |     |
|----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 4  | X-ray Absorption Spectroscopic Studies on the Nickel Centre of the Soluble Ni-Fe Hydrogenase from Alcaligenes eutrophus : First Evidence for Ligand Exchange at the Active Site within the Catalytic Cycle . . . . . | 234 |
|    | Arnd Müller, Martin Köckerling, Gerald Henkel                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| 5  | Structural Multiplicity and Conformational Dynamics in Cytochrome P-450 .                                                                                                                                                   | 244 |
|    | Christiane Jung                                                                                                                                                                                                      |     |
| 6  | The Non-Heme Iron Centre of Photosystem II and Modulatory Effects of Exogenous Copper (II) . . . . .                                                                                                                        | 260 |
|    | Gernot Renger, Jens Kurreck, Elisabeth Haag, Frank Reifarth, Axel Bergmann, Fritz Parak, Axel Garbers, Fraser MacMillan, Friedhelm Lendzian, Wolfgang Lubitz                                                         |     |
| 7  | Coordination Chemistry and Function of Metal Ion Binding Sites in Alcohol Dehydrogenases . . . . .                                                                                                                          | 278 |
|    | Hans Werner Adolph, Grazyna Formicka, Helga Schneider-Bernlöhrl, Michael Zeppezauer                                                                                                                                  |     |
| 8  | EPR Spectroscopy on 2Fe2S Centres – The Rieske Proteins and 2Fe2S Ferredoxins . . . . .                                                                                                                                     | 295 |
|    | Martin Rapp, Eva Kellner, Adolf Müller, Astrid Riedel                                                                                                                                                                |     |
| 9  | Coordination and Rigidity of Metal Sites in Blue Copper Proteins: A Hyperfine Spectroscopic Study . . . . .                                                                                                                 | 302 |
|    | Tilman Butz, Wolfgang Tröger                                                                                                                                                                                         |     |
| 10 | Structure of the "Rieske" Iron-Sulfur Protein of the Cytochrome bc <sub>1</sub> Complex from Bovine Heart Mitochondria Studied by Electrochemistry, Spectroscopy, and Crystallography . . . . .                      | 312 |
|    | Thomas A. Link, Oliver M. Hatzfeld, Monica Saynovits                                                                                                                                                                 |     |
| 11 | Superoxide Dismutase from Propionibacterium shermanii . . . . .                                                                                                                                                      | 326 |
|    | Beate Meier, Gerhard G. Habermehl                                                                                                                                                                                    |     |
| 12 | Iron-containing Proteins: Superoxide Dismutase from Propionibacterium shermanii , the Reaction Center of Pseudomonas viridis and the Photo System II of Spinach . . . . .                                     | 339 |
|    | Fritz Parak                                                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
| 13 | X-ray Structure Analyses of Copper- and Vanadium-containing Proteins . . .                                                                                                                                                  | 352 |
|    | Albrecht Messerschmidt                                                                                                                                                                                               |     |
| 14 | Prostaglandin Endoperoxidase Synthase – a Heme and Free Radical Enzyme. A Status Report on Spectroscopic Properties, Three-dimensional Structure and Reaction Mechanism . . . . .                                           | 373 |
|    | Hans-Heinrich Ruf                                                                                                                                                                                                    |     |

|          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |            |
|----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 15       | Phosphatase Activity and Oxygen Activation in the Active Site of the Fe(III)-Fe(II) Purple Acid Phosphatases . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                 | 385        |
|          | Herbert Witzel (†), Bernt Krebs, Annette Bruch, Klaudia Büldt-Karentzopoulos, Markus Dietrich, Atila Durmus, Christoph Eicken, Helmut Fischer, Thomas Klabunde, Michael Körner, Dirk Meiwes, Dieter Münstermann, Renate Löcke, Annette Rompel, Bernd Stahl, Norbert Sträter, Hildegard Suerbaum |            |
| 16       | Structural and Functional Aspects of Novel Iron- and Copper-containing Enzymes Catalyzing the Dissimilatory Transformation of N Oxides by Bacteria . . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 397        |
|          | Walter G. Zumft, Andreas Dreusch, Andrea Glockner, Peter M. H. Kroneck                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |            |
| 17       | Crystal Structure of a Purple Acid Phosphatase. Structural and Functional Studies on its Model Compounds . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                     | 412        |
|          | Bernt Krebs, Friedhelm Ahlers, Bernd Bremer, Burkhard Eulerling, Thomas Klabunde, Klaus Schepers, Michael Schmidt, Norbert Sträter, Roberto Than, Herbert Witzel (†)                                                                                                                            |            |
| D | Biomimetic Model Compounds of Metalloproteins and Metalloenzymes . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 427 |
|          | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 429        |
|          | Bernt Krebs                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |            |
| 1        | Model Studies on Methyl Coenzyme M Reductase from Methanogenic Bacteria, Mechanistic Investigations, and Preparative Applications . . . . .                                                                                                                                                            | 431        |
|          | Albrecht Berkessel                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| 2        | Kinetics and Mechanism of Axial Ligand Substitution in Octahedral Iron Complexes Serving as Model Systems for Hemoproteins . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                   | 446        |
|          | Dieter Ackermann, Horst Elias                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |            |
| 3        | Modelling the Nickel Site of Ni-Fe Hydrogenases . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 456        |
|          | Gerald Henkel, Martin Köckerling, Arnd Müller                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |            |
| 4        | The Complex Formation in the NO Reductase Mimetic System Iron(II)/L(+)-ascorbic Acid NO . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 468        |
|          | Wolfgang Jabs, Gernoth Krüger, Alfred X. Trautwein, Volker Schünemann, Eckhard Bill                                                                                                                                                                                                             |            |
| 5        | Synthetic and Spectroscopic Approaches to the Copper/Quinone-coupled Center in Amine Oxidases . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                | 476        |
|          | Jochen Rall, Eberhard Walldör, Brigitte Schwederski, Manuela Schwach, Stephan Kohlmann, Wolfgang Kaim                                                                                                                                                                                           |            |
| 6        | (Model) Investigations of the Function of Vanadium in Biological Systems . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 491        |
|          | Dieter Rehder                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |            |

|          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |            |
|----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 7        | Modelling the Dioldehydratase Reaction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 505        |
|          | Berthold Köhler, Martin Knauer, William Clegg, Mark R. J. Elsegood,Bernard T. Golding, János Rétey                                                                                                                                   |            |
| 8        | Modeling the Reactivity of Metal Sulfur Oxidoreductases. ElementaryProcesses, Key Steps, and Intermediates of the Biological Nitrogen andHydrogen Cycles . . . . .                                                                       | 520        |
|          | Dieter Sellmann                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |            |
| 9        | Coordination Chemistry of Zinc Related to an Understanding of itsBiological Functions . . . . .                                                                                                                                              | 540        |
|          | Heinrich Vahrenkamp                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |            |
| 10       | Copper Complexes with Symmetric and Unsymmetric Tripodal TetramineLigands . . . . .                                                                                                                                                          | 552        |
|          | Andreas M. Dittler-Klingemann, F. Ekkehardt Hahn, Chris Orvig                                                                                                                                                                             |            |
| 11       | Transition Metal and Rare Earth Porphyrin Complex Aggregates . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                           | 570        |
|          | Johann Walter Buchler                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |            |
| 12       | Structure-Reactivity Relationships of Bioanalogous Chelate Complexes withMacrocyclic Dianionic $[N_4]^{2-}$ and Tridentate $[ONS]^{2-}$ Ligands . . . . .                                                                                    | 584        |
|          | Ernst-G. Jäger                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |            |
| 13       | Functional Models for Metal-dependent Nuclease Enzymes . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                 | 606        |
|          | Roland Krämer                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |            |
| 14       | Catechol Oxidase: Model Compounds and Structure of the Active Site . . . .                                                                                                                                                                       | 616        |
|          | Bernt Krebs, Klaudia Büldt-Karentzopoulos, Christoph Eicken,Annette Rempel, Herbert Witzel (†), Arnold Feldmann, Rainer Kruth,Jörg Reim, Werner Steinforth, Stephan Teipel, Frank Zippel,Stefan Schindler, Frank Wiesemann |            |
| 15       | Catalytic Oxygenation of Catecholate Derivatives by Iron(III) CatecholateComplexes as Functional Model Study for the Reactivity of Intradiol-cleaving Catechol Dioxygenases . . . . .                                                    | 632        |
|          | Hans-Jörg Krüger, Welf O. Koch                                                                                                                                                                                                            |            |
| 16       | Iron-Sulfur Clusters: Precursors and Model Compounds of Active Sites.Cluster Interconversion Reactions . . . . .                                                                                                                             | 649        |
|          | Siegfried Pohl (†)                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |            |
| E | Physical Methods Applied to Investigate the Molecular, Electronic andMagnetic Structure of Metal Centers . . . . .                                                                                                                   | 661 |
|          | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 663 |
|          | Alfred X. Trautwein                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |            |

|   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
|---|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 1 | EPR and ENDOR Investigations of Dinuclear Manganese Complexes as Models for the Water Oxidizing Unit in Photosynthesis . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                         | 665 |
|   | Wolfgang Lubitz, Wolfgang Zweygart, Robert Bittl, Karl Wieghardt, Gabriele Haselhorst, Thomas Weyhermüller                                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| 2 | EPR and ENDOR Investigations of the Manganese Cluster in Photosystem II . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 673 |
|   | Wolfgang Lubitz, Robert Fiege, Robert Bittl, Klaus-Dieter Irrgang, Gernot Renger                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
| 3 | Contribution to the Long-Range Superexchange Interaction and to the Magnetism and Optical Spectra of the Exchange Coupled Hemocyanin, Co Hemocyanin and Purple Acid Phosphatases . . . . .                                                                                                               | 681 |
|   | Wolfgang Haase                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |     |
| 4 | Metal Ion Coordination in Metalloproteins: Electronic and Structural Characterization by High Resolution Electron Paramagnetic Resonance (EPR) Spectroscopy . . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 696 |
|   | Jürgen Hüttermann                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |     |
| 5 | Novel Binuclear Metal Centers in Cytochrome c Nitrite Reductase and Nitrous Oxide Reductase: A Spectroscopic and Molecular Orbital Study . . .                                                                                                                                                           | 710 |
|   | Peter M. H. Kroneck, Dieter H. W. Kastrau, Wolfram Schumacher, Ursula H. Hole, Frank Neese, Walter G. Zumft                                                                                                                                                                                       |     |
| 6 | Studies on the Localization, Structure and Function of the Iron-Molybdenum Cofactor in Nitrogenase . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                             | 725 |
|   | Achim Müller, Klaus Schneider, Helmut Appel, Waltraud Suer, Carsten Pohlmann, Ekkehard Diemann, Wolf-Gerolf Thies                                                                                                                                                                                 |     |
| 7 | Electronic Properties of Paramagnetic and Exchange-coupled Transition Metal Centers in Biomimetic Systems . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                      | 741 |
|   | Alfred X. Trautwein, Karl Wieghardt                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |     |
| 8 | Mössbauer Spectroscopy with Synchrotron Radiation . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 760 |
|   | Hanne Grünsteudel, Wolfram Meyer-Klaucke, Alfred X. Trautwein, Heiner Winkler, Olaf Leupold, Jochen Metge, Erich Gerdau, Hans Dierk Rüter, Alfred Q. R. Baron, Aleksandr I. Chumakov, Hermann F. Grünsteudel, Rudolf Rüffer, Mati Haas, Enn Realo, Dominique Mandon, Raymond Weiss, Hans Toftlund |     |