

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
Elizabeth C. Goldsmith and Dena Goodman

Part I: Putting Their Case to the Public

1. "Reason for the Public to Admire Her": Why Madame de La Guette Published Her Memoirs Carolyn Chappell Lougee	13
2. Publishing the Lives of Hortense and Marie Mancini Elizabeth C. Goldsmith	31
3. Parisian Guildswomen and the (Sexual) Politics of Privilege: Defending Their Patrimonies in Print Cynthia Maria Truant	46
4. Victorious Victims: Women and Publicity in Mémoires Judiciaires Nadine Bérenguier	62
5. Books and the Birthing Business: The Midwife Manuals of Madame du Coudray Nina Rattner Gelbart	79

Part II: Defining the Literary Field

6. Women's Letters in the Public Sphere Janet Gurkin Altman	99
---	----

7. The (Literary) World at War, or, What Can Happen When Women Go Public Joan DeJean	116
8. Les Fées Modernes : Women, Fairy Tales, and the Literary Field in Late Seventeenth-Century France Lewis C. Seifert	129
9. The Voices of Shadows: Lafayette's Zaïde Faith E. Beasley	146
10. Making Sex Public: Félicité de Choiseul-Meuse and the Lewd Novel Kathryn Norberg	161
 Part III: Debating the Question of Women and Publicity
11. The Salon Woman Goes Public . . . or Does She? Erica Harth	179
12. Publishing without Perishing: Isabelle de Charrière, a.k.a. la mouche du coche Susan K. Jackson	194
13. Suzanne Necker's Mélanges : Gender, Writing, and Publicity Dena Goodman	210
14. Laws of Nature / Rights of Genius: The Drame of Constance de Salm Elizabeth Colwill	224
Contributors	243
Index	247

Illustrations

Hortense Mancini	30
Title page of Abrégé de l'art des accouchements	81
Madame du Coudray	91
Anatomical illustrations from Abrégé de l'art des accouchements	92
Frontispiece and title page to Suite des Contes Nouveaux	136
Color plate from Abrégé de l'art des accouchements	facing page 90