

CONTENTS

PREFACE BY ANDRÉ ACIMAN

ix

A NOTE ON THE TEXT

xxi

JUDITH THURMAN

I Never Took My Eyes Off My Mother

6

LYDIA DAVIS

The Steeples Appeared So Distant

14

OLIVIER BERNIER

Odette Had Received Him in a Pink Silk Dressing-Gown

23

LARA VAPNYAR

She Started Back in Alarm

30

COLM TÓIBÍN

The New Year's Day of Old Men

36

ALAIN DE BOTTON

My Fine, Scarlet, Ever-Changing Morning

42

GEOFFREY O'BRIEN

Where Had I Looked at Them Before?

48

WAYNE KOESTENBAUM

I Went by a Devious Route

57

ANDREW SOLOMON

Discoursing in Front of an Octopus

63

J. D. McCLATCHY

Each of Us Is Indeed Alone

71

MARY ANN CAWS

Your Grandmother Is Doomed

74

EDMUND WHITE

A Race Upon Which a Curse Is Laid

81

JOHN JEREMIAH SULLIVAN

The Calendar of Feelings

91

RICHARD HOWARD

Intermittencies of the Heart

97

ANDRÉ ACIMAN

Upheaval of My Entire Being

100

SUSAN MINOT

By Shutting Her Eyes

110

RENAUD MACHART

From the Trumpet of the Chair Mender, to the Flute of the Goatherd

117

JONATHAN BURNHAM

This Lost Fatherland

128

JEREMY EICHLER

I Succumbed Once Again to the Music

140

LOUIS AUCHINCLOSS

I Saw Big Tears Glistening in His Eyes

152

ANKA MUHLSTEIN

This Unknown Quality of a Unique World

162

DANIEL MARK EPSTEIN

Mademoiselle Albertine Has Gone

168

SHIRLEY HAZZARD

I Felt That This Last Sentence Was Merely Phrase-Making

174

LOUIS BEGLEY

My Mother and I Would Enter the Baptistery

186

LESLIE EPSTEIN

The Cab Turned into the Champs-Élysées

195

DIANE JOHNSON

The Arrival of Old Age

203

ANNE GARRÉTA

A Feeling of Vertigo Seized Me as I Looked Down

210

WYATT MASON

It Was My Life, Was in Fact Me

214

CONTRIBUTORS

217