

I. Introductory	1
1. Nazism and Community: A Philosophical Nightmare	1
2. Bibliographical Preamble: A Scanty Corpus	8
2.1 Terms and Definitions	8
2.2 Bibliography	9
2.3 Scope and Range of this Study	11
2.4 Jewish ›Self-Hatred‹	14
II. Sacher-Masoch, Talmudist	17
1. Pintschew und Mintschew : The Source	17
2. Enlightenment vs. Orthodoxy	29
3. Philo-Semitism	30
4. Some Historical Background	38
5. The Paradise of Interpretation	45
6. Dialogue Again: Thoreau, Kleist, and Others	49
7. Thought, Language, and the Impersonal	52
8. An Afterthought: The Demand for Baptism	55
III. Philo-Semitism in Nineteenth-Century German Fiction	61
1. Peter Schlemihl: The Wanderer	61
2. Jud Süß : Stereotype and Guilt	63
3. Karl Gutzkow: The Honest Anti-Semite	66
4. Bettina von Arnim: Judaism and Thematic Criticism	71
5. Annette von Droste-Hülshoff: »Gerechtigkeit!«	78
6. Friedrich Hebbel: Philo-Semitism as Vaudeville	84
7. Gustav Freytag and the Problem of Human Sacrifice	87
8. Wilhelm Raabe: Jewish Women	97
9. Theodor Fontane and L'Adultera : Salvation by the Jew	108
10. Drama: Supplement	113
IV. The Borders (I)	119
The Border to the East: Austria	119
1. Ada Christen: Courage in Weakness	121
2. Marie von Ebner-Eschenbach and a Jewish »Vogel«	125

3. Ludwig Anzengruber: The Best and the Worst	131
4. Ferdinand von Saar Creates a Prophet, Perhaps Malgré Lui	136
V. The Borders (II)	143
The Border to the West: Alsace-Lorraine
The Strange Case of Erckmann-Chatrian	143
1. Who They Are	143
2. Le Blocus	148
3. Maître Daniel Rock	148
4. L'Ami Fritz	149
5. L'Illustre docteur Mathéus	151
6. Le Juif polonais	151
7. Le Combat de coqs	154
8. Le Sacrifice d'Abraham	155
9. L'Œil invisible	158
10. Narcissism and Representation	159
11. The Jew as Art Dealer	161
12. ›Conditio Judaica‹	161
VI. Women and Philo-Semitism	165
VII. Conclusions	171
1. Vanishing Anti-Semitism?	171
2. The Stereotype	172
3. Guilt	173
4. The Jew, Absent and Present	174
5. Haunted	175
Bibliography	179
Index	195