

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

vii

INTRODUCTION

i

Part One:	Tempted by Distance: Intellectuals and the Grey Republic	11
Part Two:	The Problem of Experience	43
	1. The Threatened Self: Walter Rathenau and the Politics of Wholeness	44
	2. Ulrich, a Life: Robert Musil and the Experiment of the Real	78
	3. "Placet Experiri?" Thomas Mann and the Charms of Entelechy	121
Part Three:	The Seductions of Redemption	151
	4. Marxist Creationism: Walter Benjamin and the Authority of the Critic	152
	5. The Magic Spaces of Terror: Ernst Jünger and the Aesthetics of Authenticity	194
	6. Redemptive Narration: Hermann Broch, Alfred Döblin, and the Metaphysics of Community	231
Epilogue:	"That Certain Grey Veil of West German Boredom"	267
NOTES		275
INDEX		339