

Contents

Introduction	xi
Dorothy G. Singer
Preface	xv
Chapter 1
Children and Adolescents: Unique Audiences	1
Media Environment and Habits of Today's Youth	4
Children Are Different From Adults	8
Children Are Different From Each Other	12
Adolescents Are Different From Children	13
Developmental Differences in Processing the Mass Media	16
Conclusion	31
Exercises	32
Chapter 2
Advertising	34
Historical Changes in Advertising to Children	38
Content Analyses of Television Advertising	41
Children's Processing of Advertising	44
Persuasive Impact of Advertising	53
Phases of Consumer Behavior During Childhood	60
Marketing Strategies in the 21st Century	61
Regulation of Advertising Targeted to Youth	65
Teaching Advertising Literacy	68
Conclusion	69
Exercises	71

Chapter 3

Media Violence	73
How Violent Are American Media?	76
Does Media Violence Attract Youth?	80
Can Media Violence Lead to Aggression?	83
Can Media Violence Desensitize Young People?	99
Can Media Violence Produce Fear?	103
Cultural Debates About Media Violence	105
Guns and the Media	107
Suicide and the Media	110
Japan Versus the United States: A Cross-Cultural Comparison	111
Can Media Violence Have Positive Effects?	112
Conclusion	113
Exercises	114

Chapter 4

Electronic Games	117
Jeanne B. Funk
Video Games Grow Up: Electronic Games in the 21st Century	118
Conclusion: Where Do We Go From Here?	141
Exercises	144

Chapter 5

Sexuality and the Media	145
Background	154
Television as a Source of Sexual Information	157
What Do Children and Teenagers Learn From Television?	162
Why Teenagers May Be Particularly Susceptible to Sexual Content in the Media	164
Movies	166
Questionable Language and Taste in Movies and Television: A New Trend?	167
Print Media	169
The Nature of the Research	170
Prosocial Sexual Content on Television	180
Contraceptive Advertising	180
Pornography	183
Solutions	186
Conclusion: Unanswered Questions	192
Exercises	193

Chapter 6
Drugs and the Media	195
Adolescent Drug Use	196
Determinants of Child and Adolescent Drug Use	202
Impact of Advertising on Children and Adolescents	203
Cigarettes	207
Alcohol	216
Drugs	222
Solutions	224
Exercises	232
 Chapter 7
Eating and Eating Disorders	237
Food Advertisements	239
The Impact of Food Advertisements on Behavior	244
Food in Television Programming and Movies	246
Food Advertised in Schools	247
Does Television Viewing Increase Childhood Obesity?	251
Eating Disorders and Body Image	257
Disordered Body Image	260
Anorexia Nervosa and Bulimia	264
Conclusion	265
Solutions	266
Exercises	269
 Chapter 8
Rock Music and Music Videos	271
Rock 'n' Roll Music	274
How Teenagers Use Music	279
Music Videos and Music Television (MTV)	288
Conclusion	298
Exercises	299
 Chapter 9
The Internet	301
Edward Donnerstein
The Internet: What Is It?	304
Is the Net Being Used?	306
Concerns About the Net	307
Sex on the Net: A Primary Concern	308
Other Areas of Concern	313

Solutions to Internet Concerns	315
On the Positive Side	317
Conclusion	320
Exercises	321

Chapter 10

Media Literacy: What? Why? How? 322

Bob McCannon

McLuhan's Global Village: What Happened?	324
Step One: Become Informed	330
Step Two: A Media Literate Advocate	331
Media Literacy: Understanding the Trade-Offs, the Opportunity Costs	333
An Opportunity for Activists	335
Family Media Literacy: A Media Diet—Some Guidelines	335
Media Literacy for School and Family	345
Tools of Media Analysis	346
How Effective Is Media Education?	360
Conclusion: Doing Media Education	363
Exercises	365

Chapter 11

Ten Arguments in Favor of Solutions 368

1. Improving Programming Quality	369
2. Improving Advertising	376
3. Perceiving Media Violence as a Public Health Threat	380
4. Creating a Uniform Rating System for All Media	390
5. Improving the Portrayal of Sex and Sexuality in the Media	400
6. Conducting More Research	402
7. Increasing Media Education for Children	405
8. Increasing Media Education for Parents and Health Professionals	407
9. Using Media to Campaign for Health and Prosocial Purposes	412
10. Stepping Up Media Advocacy	418
Conclusion	420

Appendix A: Media Literacy Skills	422
-----------------------------------	-----

Appendix B: An Advocate's Guide to Media Literacy Resources	427
-------------------------------------------------------------	-----

Appendix C: Definition of Media Literacy	438
------------------------------------------	-----

References	439
------------	-----

Name Index	511
------------	-----

Subject Index	533
---------------	-----

About the Authors	537
-------------------	-----