

Contents

Preface	IX
Author's preface	XII
SECTION I
Survey	I
1 The nature of language
In the beginning ...	3
The design of language	4
Animal communication	8
Human language: endowment or accomplishment?	11
Language, mind, and social life	13
2 The scope of linguistics
Experience and explanation	17
Models and maps	18
Dimensions of idealization	20
Langue and parole	21
Competence and performance	24
Knowledge and ability	27
3 Principles and levels of analysis
Type and token	29
Principles of classification	30
Dimensions of analysis	32
Levels of analysis	35

4 Areas of enquiry: focus on form
The patterns of sound: phonetics and phonology	41
Sound segments	42
Syllables	43
Stress and intonation	43
The construction of words: morphology	45
Derivation and inflection	46
The combination of words: syntax	48
Grammatical systems	49
Constituent structure	50
5 Areas of enquiry: focus on meaning
Meaning in language: semantics	53
The meaning of words	53
Semantic components	55
Sense relations	57
Words and phrases	60
Meaning in context: pragmatics	61
Reference, force, and effect	62
Context and schema	63
Negotiation of meaning	65
Relations between utterances	66
6 Current issues
The scope of linguistics	69
The data of linguistics	72
The relevance of linguistics	75
SECTION 2
Readings	79
SECTION 3
References	115
SECTION 4
Glossary	125