

CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction Gillis Dorleijn	ix
Contributors	xxi
Mysophobia in the Dutch Literature of the fin de siècle (1885-1910) Mary Kemperink	1
On Contaminating and Infectious Agents. The Medical Discourse in the Netherlands around 1900 Mart J. van Lieburg	17
Out with the Dust Traps! Order, Cleanliness, and Status in the Dutch Interior, 1890-1965 Ileen Montijn	27
Literature as a Means of Defence. Humanism and Nationalism in the Teaching of Literature in the Netherlands, c. 1900-1940 Ton van Kalmthout	39
Patterns of Change in Recent Dutch Literature Frank Berndsen	53
The End of Progress in Art. Or: The Appreciation of Postmodern Poetry Bertram Mourits	67
Women Authors and Women's Writing in the Declining Years of Modernism Erica van Boven	77
The Decline of Modernism and the Rise of Children's Literature: Divided Consciousness in the Lyrics of Annie M.G. Schmidt. Lies Wesseling	89

The Return of Melodrama. After the Great Divide: the Dutch Case Maaïke Meijer	105
Confronting Cultural Crises. Many Problems, (Almost) No Answers Dirk de Geest	125
Bibliography	143
Index	155