

CONTENTS	5
Preface	11
1. INTRODUCTION: THE BACKGROUND TO THE UAP PROGRAMME	13
Objectives of the Present Book	13
Development of the UAP Concept and Programme	14
UAP Research Studies	16
The Structure of this Book	18
2. THE NATURE AND SCOPE OF UAP	19
Definition and Scope of UAP	19
Scope of UAP	19
The Need for Availability	20
The need for publications	20
The need for improvement	22
Agents and Vehicles of Availability	25
Suppliers of publications	25
The future role of technology	26
The Dimensions of UAP	28
3. ACCESS AND AVAILABILITY: THE USER'S ANGLE	32
Introduction	32
Definition of 'users'	32
Obstacles to availability	34
Studying the User	35

The need for support from users	35
Pre-requisites to user studies	36
Categories of user	36
Assessing information needs	38
Potential users	38
The handicapped user	40
Ethnic and linguistic minorities	41
Non-conventional Media and the User	41
Audiovisual media	41
Microform	41
Electronic text	42
The appropriate use of different media	42
Education in the Use of Information Resources	42
The Professional and the User	43
The importance of professionals	43
Professional education	44
Evaluation of libraries and information services	44
The need for user orientation	45
National planning of information services	45

4. THE PRODUCTION AND SUPPLY OF PUBLICATIONS	47
Introduction	47
Authorship	48
Printing	49
Publishing	50
Copyright	52
Distribution	52
Import problems	54
Automation of distribution	56
Acquisition by Libraries and Other Information Providers	56
Coordination in Production and Supply	58

5. THE ACQUISITION OF PUBLICATIONS	59
The Need for Action	59
The limitations of local collections: growing demand, growing output, growing cost and shrinking budgets	59
Extending resources	61
Acquisition for positive availability	62
National Acquisition Policies and Systems	63
The coverage of a national acquisitions policy	63
Requirements for Effective Systems	65
Mechanics of Collection	67
Possible Types of Acquisition System	68
Centralized acquisition	68
Concentration on a few libraries	70
Regional distribution of responsibilities	70
Decentralized acquisition	71
The choice between models	71
6. KEEPING PUBLICATIONS AVAILABLE	72
The Need to Ensure Permanent Availability	72
The Concept of Repositories	73
The Organisation and Functions of Repositories	75
Geographical coverage	75
Coverage by subject	76
Coverage by type of institution	76
Active and passive repositories	76
The distribution of duplicates	77
Acquisition and retention	77
Conservation	77
Collections in private hands	78
Finance and management	78
Requirements for Effective Systems	78
Ownership of material	79
Management capability	79
Relegation issues	80
User needs	80

Possible Models of Repository Systems	80
Single national repository with mandatory deposit	81
National repository with voluntary deposit	81
Network of local and regional repositories	82
Distributed repository function	82
Preferred types of repository system	83
Conclusions	83

7. INTERLENDING, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL 85

The Need for Action	85
Interlending as an essential ingredient in national plans	85
Factors inhibiting interlending	86
The need for systematic planning	87
Policies and Systems	87
Requirements for Effective Interlending	88
Satisfaction rate	88
Speed of supply	89
Costs	91
Other considerations	92
The Organization of National Interlending Systems	94
Possible Interlending Systems	94
Concentration on a single collection	95
Concentration on a few libraries	96
Planned allocation among selected libraries	96
Unplanned decentralized access	96
Combined concentration and decentralization	97
International Interlending	97
Conclusions	99

8. SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF PUBLICATION 100

Introduction	100
Official Publications	100
Non-conventional Publications	101
Rare and Valuable Publications	102

Printed Music	103
Ephemera	103
Maps	104
Non-Book Media	104
Electronic Text	105

9. CONCLUSIONS	106
Introduction	106
Obstacles to Availability	106
Basic Requirements of UAP	107
National Information Planning and Development	108
National cooperation and coordination	109
International Cooperation	110
The Need for Research	111
Planning for the Future	112
Agents of Action	113
Conclusion: a Call for Action	115

APPENDIX 1

Bibliography	117
--------------	-----

APPENDIX 2

Recommendations adopted at the Unesco/IFLA
International Congress on Universal Availability of
Publications	131