

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Abbreviations	xi
List of affixes	xiii
Maps	xv
1. Introduction	1
1.1. The Iraqw people	1
1.2. The Iraqw language	3
1.2.1. Classification	3
1.2.2. The status of Iraqw today	4
1.2.3. Former studies on Iraqw	4
1.2.4. Publications in Iraqw	5
1.2.5. Collection of data	5
1.3. Bibliographies	5
1.3.1. Southern Cushitic linguistic bibliography	5
1.3.2. Publications in the Iraqw language	9
1.3.3. Iraqw cultural and historical bibliography	11
2. Phonology	15
2.1. Phoneme inventory	15
2.1.1. The consonants	15
2.1.2. The vowels	19
2.1.3. Tone	21
2.1.4. Stress	23
2.1.5. Intonation	24
2.2. Syllable types	24
2.3. Syllable sequence restrictions and related rules	26
2.4. Reduplication	31
2.5. Other phonological rules	33
2.5.1. Vowel coalescence and glide formation	33
2.5.2. Simplification of consonant clusters	35
2.5.3. Vowel assimilation	36
2.5.4. Word-final reduction	37
2.6. Order of rules	39
3. Nominal morphology	41
3.1. Gender of nouns	41
3.1.1. Predictability by form	41
3.1.2. Predictability by meaning	44
3.2. Number of nouns	44
3.2.1. The category of number	44
3.2.2. The derivational nature of number	44
3.2.3. Number and gender	46
3.2.4. Overview of suffixes	46
3.2.4.1. The collective suffixes	47
3.2.4.2. Plural suffixes	49
3.2.4.3. Singulative suffixes	63

- 3.2.5. Patterns of derivation 69
 - 3.3. Derived nouns 74
 - 3.4. Other noun suffixes 82
 - 3.4.1. The demonstrative suffixes 90
 - 3.4.2. The possessive suffixes 92
 - 3.4.3. The indefinite suffixes 93
 - 3.4.4. The construct case suffix 94
 - 3.4.5. The adverbial case suffixes 102
 - 3.4.5.1. The directive case suffix 103
 - 3.4.5.2. The ablative case suffix 104
 - 3.4.5.3. The instrumental case suffix 106
 - 3.4.5.4. The reason case suffix 107
 - 3.4.6. The background case suffix 107
 - 3.4.7. The vocative case 111
 - 3.5. Pronouns 112
 - 3.5.1. Personal pronouns 112
 - 3.5.2. Independent forms of noun suffixes 114
 - 3.5.3. The resumptive pronoun alé 117
 - 3.6. Numerals 117
 - 3.7. Proper nouns 119
 - 3.8. Question words 120
-
- 4. The verb 123
 - 4.1. The verbs 'to be' 123
 - 4.1.1. The verbs 'to be' with a nominal complement 124
 - 4.1.2. The verbs 'to be' with a verbal or an adjectival complement 125
 - 4.1.3. The use of the dependent verb 'to be' 132
 - 4.1.4. The hither 134
 - 4.1.5. The impersonal 'to be' 136
 - 4.1.6. The reflexive and reciprocal 139
 - 4.1.7. Additional affixes: Order and possible combinations 140
 - 4.1.8. The tense and aspect markers: The perfect -(g)a 141
 - 4.1.9. The expectational -n 144
 - 4.1.10. The imperfective past -na 145
 - 4.1.11. The consecutive -ri 146
 - 4.1.12. The consecutive -ay 146
 - 4.1.13. The background -wa 147
 - 4.1.14. The mood prefixes: The conditional bar and the concessive tam 147
 - 4.1.15. The prohibitive and questioning mood prefixes m- 150
 - 4.1.16. The case clitics 152
 - 4.2. Verbal inflection 155
 - 4.2.1. Introduction 155
 - 4.2.2. The paradigms 156
 - 4.2.3. Person, gender and number marking 159
 - 4.2.4. The tense and mood markers 161
 - 4.2.5. Irregular verbs 163
 - 4.2.6. Imperatives 164

- 4.2.7. Participles 165
- 4.2.8. The infinitive suffixes 167
- 4.3. Verbal derivation 170
 - 4.3.1. Introduction 170
 - 4.3.2. The causative suffix -s 174
 - 4.3.3. The middle voice suffix -t 175
 - 4.3.4. The durative suffix -m 178
 - 4.3.5. Reduplication for habitual 180
 - 4.3.6. Reduplication with long aa 183
 - 4.3.7. The durative infix <ar> 185
 - 4.3.8. The inchoative suffix -uw 186
 - 4.3.9. The factitive verbalizer -ees 188
 - 4.3.10. The factitive verbalizer -uus 189
 - 4.3.11. The verbalizer -uut 190
 - 4.3.12. Combinations of derivations and the relation between the different imperfective derivations 190
- 4.4. Compound verbs 195
 - 4.4.1. The Adverb-Verb compounds 196
 - 4.4.2. The Case clitic-Verb compounds 198
 - 4.4.3. The Noun-Verb compounds 200
- 5. Other word classes 203
 - 5.1. Adjectives 203
 - 5.2. Verbal adverbs 210
 - 5.3. Sentential adverbs 216
 - 5.4. Expressions of time 223
 - 5.5. Prepositions 226
 - 5.6. Ideophones 227
- 6. The noun phrase 229
 - 6.1. Word order within the noun phrase 229
 - 6.2. Gender agreement within the noun phrase 233
 - 6.3. Gender agreement with the noun phrase 234
- 7. Basic sentence structure 235
 - 7.1. Non-verbal sentences 235
 - 7.1.1. Copular sentences 235
 - 7.1.2. Locative 'to be' 236
 - 7.1.3. Temporal nominal sentences 237
 - 7.1.4. Impersonal subject 237
 - 7.2. Verbal sentences: The core of the sentence 238
 - 7.2.1. Subject 240
 - 7.2.2. Object 242
 - 7.2.3. Adverbial case 244
 - 7.2.4. Adverbs 246
 - 7.2.5. The linked noun 247
 - 7.3. Adjuncts 249
 - 7.3.1. External subject 250

7.3.2. External object	250
7.3.3. Split object	256
7.3.4. Bare noun internal object	257
7.3.5. External adverbial case noun phrase and external verbal adverb: The resumptive pronoun alé	259
7.3.6. Sentential adverb	261
7.3.7. Prepositional phrase	261
7.4. The syntactic function of the background suffix	263
7.5. Sentences with verbal nouns	265
7.6. Imperative sentences	272
7.7. Topic	273
7.8. Sentence-final position	275
8. Relative clauses	277
8.1. Participles	277
8.2. Relative clauses	280
8.3. The head noun	281
9. Questions	283
9.1. Question words as a complement of the copula	283
9.2. Question words as modifiers	286
9.3. Question words as adjuncts	286
9.4. Questions with the questioning prefix on 'to be'	287
9.5. Yes/no questions and leading questions	287
9.6. Echo questions	288
10. Complex sentences	289
10.1. Complementizers and clause introducers	293
11. Texts	299
11.1. saree'a nee Geesó Dúqa The buffalo and Geso Duqa	299
11.2. kwa'angw nee hhooki The Hare and the Pigeon	324
11.3. deelór wakee About one day	331
11.4. History and origin of the Iraqw	337
References	361