

CONTENTS

PREFACE ix

Chapter 1

ON THE USE OF EMBRYONIC STEM CELLS 1

Normative Questions and Normative Contexts 1

Philosophy, Politics, and Theology and Their Interrelations 15

The Status of the Embryo in Current Jewish Discussion 27

Natural Law in Judaism 31

Three Rabbinic Texts Pertaining to Abortion 35

The Embryo before and after the Fortieth Day of Gestation 50

Law and Scientific Evidence 58

The Beginning of Human Life 66

Permission or Obligation? 69

Political Realities 71

Notes 73

Chapter 2

A JEWISH ARGUMENT FOR SOCIALIZED MEDICINE 91

Universal Health Care: Canada and the United States 91

Moral and Theological Problems with the Practice of Medicine 92

Medicine as a Sacred Profession 98

Medicine as a Calling 101

Nonsectarian Medicine 104

Notes 107

Chapter 3

PHYSICIAN-ASSISTED SUICIDE 111

Theology, Philosophy, and Politics 111

Who Is Guilty in Physician-Assisted Suicide? 112

The Physician Kills the Patient 117

The Physician Orders the Patient Killed 118

The Physician Orders the Patient to Commit Suicide 122

The Physician Prepares the Patient for Suicide 127

viii
Contents

Suicide as a Reflexive Act	130
Suicide and Personal Responsibility	136
Public Philosophy in a Secular Society	141
Suicide: Public and Private	144
Society's Claims on the Individual Person	149
Struggling against the Politics of Death	158
Notes	160

BIBLIOGRAPHY 173

INDEX 181