

Acknowledgments	ix
------------------------	----

Introduction	The Cultural Politics of Postsocialism	i
---------------------	--	---

part i

Intellectual Discourse: National and Global Determinations

One	The Return of the Political: The Making of the Post-Tiananmen Intellectual Field	25
Two	Nationalism, Mass Culture, and Intellectual Strategies in the 1990s	102
Three	Postmodernism and Postsocialist Society: Cultural Politics after the "New Era"	136

part ii

Literary Discourse: Narrative Possibilities of Postsocialism

Four	Shanghai Nostalgia: Mourning and Allegory in Wang Anyi's Literary Production in the 1990s	181
Five	Toward a Critical Iconography: Shanghai, "Minor Literature," and the Unmaking of a Modern Chinese Mythology	212
Six	"Demonic Realism" and the "Socialist Market Economy": Language Game, Natural History, and Social Allegory in Mo Yan's The Republic of Wine	240

part iii

Cinematic Discourse: Universality, Singularity, and the Everyday World

- Seven* National Trauma, Global Allegory: Construction of Collective Memory in Tian Zhuangzhuang's

The Blue Kite 269

- Eight* Narrative, Culture, and Legitimacy: Repetition
and Singularity in Zhang Yimou's

The Story of Qiu Ju 289

Notes 311

Bibliography 331

Index 341