

CONTENTS

Preface	ix-x
---------	------

Acknowledgements	xi
------------------	----

BYZANTINO-ROSSIKA

I	The Reception of Byzantine Culture by the Slavs The 17th International Congress of Byzantine Studies. Major Papers. New Rochelle, New York, 1986	383-397
II	The Empire of the Rhomaioi as Viewed from Kievan Russia: Aspects of Byzantino-Russian Cultural Relations Byzantion, LIII. Brussels, 1983	507-537
III	Some Apocryphal Sources of Kievan Russian Historiography Oxford Slavonic Papers. New Series, XV. Oxford, 1982	1-27
IV	Malalas in Slavonic Studies in John Malalas, Byzantina Australiensia, 6, ed. E. Jeffreys with B. Croke and R. Scott, Sydney, 1990	276-290
V	An Obscure Sentence in the Slavonic Translation of the Chronicle of John Malalas Byzantinoslavica, XLVII. Prague, 1986	189-195
VI	Who Was the Uncle of Theodore Prodromus? Byzantinoslavica, XLV. Prague 1984	40-45

- VII Echoes of Byzantine Elite Culture in Twelfth-Century Russia? 177–187
Byzantium and Europe: First International Byzantine Conference, Delphi, 20–24 July 1985, ed. A. Markopoulos. Athens, 1987
- VIII Diplomacy and Ideology: Byzantium and the Russian Church in the Mid Twelfth Century 145–150
Byzantine Diplomacy, ed. J. Shepard and S. Franklin. Aldershot, 1992
- IX Annotationes Byzantino-Russicae 223–230
GENNADIOS. K 70-letiiu akademika G.G. Litavrina. Moscow, 1999

WRITING AND LEARNING IN EARLY RUS

- X Literacy and Documentation in Early Medieval Russia 1–38
Speculum, 60. Cambridge, Massachusetts, 1985
- XI The Writing in the Ground: Recent Soviet Publications on Early Russian Literacy 411–421
The Slavonic and East European Review, 65. London, 1987
- XII Greek in Kievan Rus' 69–81
Dumbarton Oaks Papers, 46. Washington D.C., 1992
- XIII Booklearning and Bookmen in Kievan Rus': A Survey of an Idea 830–848
Harvard Ukrainian Studies XII/XIII (1988-1989). Washington D.C., 1990
- XIV On 'Philosophy' and 'Philosophers' in Kievan Rus 1–15
English translation of article in Russian in Byzantinoslavica LIII. Prague, 1992
- XV Perceptions and Descriptions of Art in Pre-Mongol Rus 669–678
Byzantinoslavica, LVI. Prague, 1995

XVI	Borrowed Time: Perceptions of the Past in Twelfth-Century Rus' The Perception of the Past in Twelfth-Century Europe, ed. P. Magdalino. London, 1992	157–171
THE POST-MEDIEVAL TRADITION
XVII	The Invention of Rus(sia)(s): Some Remarks on Medieval and Modern Perceptions of Continuity and Discontinuity Alfred P. Smyth (ed.) Medieval Europeans. Studies in Ethnic Identity and National Perspectives in Medieval Europe. London, 1998	180–195
XVIII	Towards Post-Soviet Pre-Modernism: On Recent Approaches to Early Rus(s)ian Hagiography Byzantine and Modern Greek Studies, 18. Birmingham, 1994	250–275
XIX	Nostalgia for Hell: Russian Literary Demonism and Orthodox Tradition Russian Literature and its Demons, ed. Pamela Davidson. Oxford and New York, 2000	31–58
	Index	1–9

This volume contains xii + 338 pages
