

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Part I Temporal Politics
Introduction	3
1 The Problem of Static Time: Totalization, the End of History, and the End of the 1960s	21
Part II Feminism as Static Time
2 Heir Apparent: Legacies of the 1960s in The Women's Room and Vida	49
3 Dead-End Job: The Stepford Wives , Domestic Labor, and the End of History	71
4 Promiscuous Times: Rubyfruit Jungle , Fear of Flying , and the Desire for the Event	89
Part III Feminism as Futurity
5 Alice Walker's Hindsight: Meridian , The Color Purple , and the Production of Prolepsis	113
6 My Mother, My Self: Sentiment and the Transcendence of Time in The Joy Luck Club and The Divine Secrets of the Ya-Ya Sisterhood	137
Coda: Hurried Woman Tales	163
Notes	169
Bibliography	199
Index	219