

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Tabula gratulatoria	vii
Editors' Foreword and Editorial Note	ix, xi
CV and Bibliography	xiii, xv
1. A Life of Scholarship	1
2. Maurice Joly: Etica liberale e 'machiavellismo' sotto il Secondo Impero	11
3. Shahryar, Giocondo, Kote'rviky: Three Versions of the Motif of the Faithless Woman	29
4. The Humanist as Scholar and Politian's Conception of the grammaticus	39
5. Periodic Syntax and Flexible Meter in the Divina Commedia	59
6. Stile e pensiero del Barocco fra arte e letteratura	83
7. Cinquecento Mannerism and the Uses of Petrarch	97
8. Boccaccio, Chaucer, and the Mercantile Ethic	121
9. Petrarch 1974: A Sketch for A Portrait	139
10. Aspetti delle Arti del Trivio fra Medioevo e Rinascimento	159
11. Dante and the Rhetorical Theory of Sentence Structure	179
12. Beauzée, Behaghel, and J. R. Ross on Heavy-NP Shift	193
13. The Structure of the Canzoniere and Petrarch's Method of Composition	207
14. Rhetorical Factors as Clues to Form and Meaning	217
15. Direct vs. Inverted Order: Wolff and Condillac on the Necessity of the Sign and the Interrelationship of Language and Thinking	233
16. The 18th-Century Debate Concerning Linearity or Simultaneity in the Deep Structure of Language: From Buffier to Gottsched	239
17. The Rise of National Languages: East and West	249
18. The Mediterranean's Three Spiritual Shores: Images of the Self Between Christianity and Islam in the Later Middle Ages	279
19. The Nature and Virtues of the German Language in the Bavarian Periodical Parnassus Boicus (1722-40)	301
20. Dante and the ars grammatica	315
21. The Origins of Syntax: Descartes or the modistae ?	327
22. (Christian) Theologians vs. (Pagan) Philosophers: Another Look at Dante's Allegory	335
23. Celso Cittadini and the Origins of Romance Philology	345
24. Storytelling, the Novella, and the Decameron	353
25. Linguistics and Other Semiotic Arts	375