

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xiv
List of abbreviations	xv
 Part I Reading Rousseau contextually
1 Rousseau's general will: freedom of a particular kind Patrick Riley	1
2 Hume, Smith and Rousseau on freedom Norman Barry	29
3 Human nature, liberty and progress: Rousseau's dialogue with the critics of the Discours sur l'inégalité Christopher Kelly and Roger Masters	53
4 Rousseau and Tocqueville on democratic legitimacy and illegitimacy Melvin Richter	70
 Part II Interpreting the Social Contract
5 Thinking one's own thoughts: autonomy and the citizen Geraint Parry	99
6 'Forced to be free' John Hope Mason	121
7 Rousseau, the problem of sovereignty and the limits of political obligation John Charvet	139
8 Eternal vigilance: Rousseau's death penalty Felicity Baker	152

Part III Locating Rousseau's meanings and significance

- |    |   |     |
|----|---|-----|
| 9  | Rousseau and his critics on the fanciful liberties we have lostRobert Wokler           | 189 |
| 10 | 'But in a republic, men are needed':guarding the boundaries of libertyUrsula Vogel | 213 |
| 11 | Rousseau's theory of liberty† Maurice Cranston   | 231 |
| 12 | Rousseau's soi-disant libertyLester G. Crocker                                  | 244 |
| 13 | Rousseau and totalitarianism – with hindsight?Iain Hampsher-Monk                       | 267 |
|    | Index   | 289 |