

CONTENTS

PREFACE	vii
ABBREVIATIONS	xii
I. THE SHAM REVOLUTION	1
1. The Decision to Share Governmental Responsibility	1
2. Motives and Evaluation	3
3. The Superfluity of a Revolution	5
4. Birth of the Republic	6
5. The Problem of Forging an All-Socialist Provisional Government	9
6. Pretensions of the Berlin Vollzugsrat	13
7. The Problem of Russo-German Relations	16
8. Abortive Socialization Efforts	17
9. Ebert's Reliance on the Army	20
10. Significance of the All-German Congress of Workers' and Soldiers' Councils	22
11. Departure of the Independent Socialists from the Government	24
II. THE ILLUSION OF POWER	29
1. The Spartacist Uprising	29
2. The National Assembly	31
3. Forming the First Coalition Government	33
4. Noske's Suppression of the Workers' Councils ..	34
5. The Prussian Problem and the Constitution ..	38
6. Mixed Majority Socialist Reaction to Accepting the Treaty of Versailles	42
7. Policies of the Bauer Government	47
8. Consequences of the Kapp Putsch	51
9. Hermann Müller's First Cabinet	54
10. The End of the Illusion	57
III. THE MILLSTONE OF FULFILLMENT, 1920-23	59
1. Importance of the Policy of Fulfillment to Social Democracy	59
2. The Socialists and the Fehrenbach Government	61
3. Impact of the Split of the USPD upon the MSPD	63

4. The Paris and London Demands: Setback to Conciliation	64
5. The Majority Socialists and Wirth's Two Cabinets	68
6. Eastern Policy and the Treaty of Rapallo	73
7. Reunion of the MSPD and USPD	76
8. Socialist Reaction to Cuno's Ministry and French Occupation of the Ruhr	80
IV. CONSOLIDATION OF THE BOURGEOIS REPUBLIC AND THE RIGHTWARD DRIFT OF THE SPD	84
1. The Day of the Great Coalition	84
2. The Feud in Saxony	88
3. The SPD's Position towards Stresemann's Rump Coalition Government and Marx's Bürgerblock	91
4. The Elections of May 1924 and the Dawes Plan	95
5. The Collaborationist Problem before the Berlin Convention	97
6. Acceptance of the Dawes Plan	100
7. Rewards of Virtue: Elections of 7 December 1924	102
8. Rightward Gravitation to Luther and Hindenburg	104
V. THE EMERGENCE OF A CAPITALIST CONSENSUS	109
1. The Spell of Supply-side Economics	109
2. The Party's Attitude towards Luther's Cabinet	112
3. Social Reaction in the Saddle: Luther to Marx	113
4. The Half-Hearted Quest for a Way Back into the National Government	118
5. The Elections of 1928 and the Müller Cabinet II	122
6. The Fight over Pocket Battleship "A"	127
7. Hilferding's Unbalanced Budget	131
VI. FOREIGN POLICY "COALITION" OF THE MIDDLE PHASE	134
1. Socialist Desire for a Western Security Pact ..	134
2. The Russo-German Friendship Pact and Germany's Admission to the League Council	138
3. Continued Socialist Support of Stresemann's Policies	141
4. The Young Plan and the "Freedom Law" ...	146

VII. THE TWILIGHT OF GERMAN DEMOCRACY	151
1. The Assault upon the Unemployment Insurance System	151
2. Hilferding's Unified Financial Reform	155
3. The Drive to Overthrow the Müller Cabinet II	158
4. The SPD's Decision in the March Crisis	163
5. Flirtation with Brüning	165
6. Turning Point: The Elections of 14 September 1930	168
7. The SPD's Policy of Toleration	170
VIII. THE GREAT RETREAT: FROM BRÜNING TO PAPEN	177
1. Secession of the Extreme Left of the SPD ...	177
2. The Party without a Practicable Defensive Strategy	181
3. Brüning's Falling Star	185
4. Papen's Staatsstreich against Prussia	189
5. Passive Opposition to Papen	195
6. The "Kingmaker" Emerges from the Wings ..	197
IX. EPILOGUE: THE RIM OF NIGHT	200
1. Schleicher's Imposture	200
2. No Battle Cry but a Whimper	203
X. SOCIOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF THE PARTY ..	208
1. Changing Norms of Social Democracy	208
2. The Consolidation of Executive Control	209
3. The Shape of Organization	211
4. The Heightened Influence of the Free Trade Unions upon the SPD	213
5. The Politicization of the ADGB	214
6. Contour of the ADGB-SPD Confederacy	217
7. Import of the MSPD-USPD Merger for the Party's Central Organs	220
8. The Social Democratic Press	221
9. Voting Patterns	223
10. Membership and Legislative Representation ..	224
11. The Question of Superannuation	227
CONCLUSIONS	231
BIBLIOGRAPHY	239

List of Illustrations

(Between pp. 110–111)

1. The first German Reich celebration, President Ebert and Chancellor Wirth leading the guard of honor
2. The sitting cabinet of Chancellor Hermann Müller, July 1928
3. Friedrich Ebert, 1871–1925, Reichspresident
4. Social Democratic party conference, 1924, in Berlin
5. Otto Wels addressing a rally of the “Iron Front” in Berlin
6. Minister-President of Prussia, Otto Braun and his Interior Minister Carl Severing
7. Gustav Stresemann, 1878–1929, Chancellor and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs
8. Hermann Müller-Franken, 1876–1931, twice chancellor and co-chairman of the Central Executive Committee of the SPD
9. Otto Wels, 1873–1939, co-chairman of the Central Executive Committee of the SPD
10. Otto Braun (1920), 1872–1955, Minister-President of Prussia
11. Rudolf Hilferding, 1877–1941, Reich Finance Minister 1928–29

These photographs are used with the permission of the Bildarchiv Preussischer Kulturbesitz.