Contents

Foreword ix

Introduction 1

1 Some preliminaries 3
1.1 Some terms and distinctions 3
1.2 Some graphic conventions 8

2 Text grammars and discourse analysis 12
2.1 Text versus non-text 12
2.2 Pragmatics in a theory of text 14

3 Re-interpreting speech act theory 20
3.1 Identifying and characterising illocutionary acts 20
3.2 On saying what you mean 27

4 Interactional aspects of spoken discourse 32
4.1 Linguistic and non-linguistic behaviour in discourse 33
4.2 On turn-taking 38
4.3 On sequential relevance 42

5 Some systems for the analysis of spoken discourse 54
5.1 Speech act sequences 55
5.2 A tagmemic model 61
5.3 'Situational' and 'discourse' categories in a rank-scale model 66

6 Illocution plus interaction: an integrative model 75
6.1 Interactional structures characterised 82
6.1.1 Interactional acts in move structure 84
6.1.2 Interactional moves in exchange structure 86
6.1.3 Exchange linkage in phase structure 100
6.2 Realising interactional structures in conversational behaviour - anticipatory strategy 114
6.2.1 Pre-exchanges 116
6.2.2 Supportive moves - grounders, expanders, disarmers 122
6.2.3 Multiple heads in move structure 129
6.2.4 Other anticipatory strategies illustrated 133
6.3 Illocutionary acts characterised 136
6.3.1 Discourse external/internal illocutions 140
6.3.2 Discourse-internal illocutions 148
6.4 Realising communicative acts in conversational behaviour 152
6.4.1 Fumbling 153
6.4.2 Overlapping and re-ordering 156
6.4.3 Topic-conflict and incoherence 164
6.5 Illustrative analyses 168
6.5.1 Structural display conventions 169
6.5.2 Three annotated analyses 171
7 Perspectives 189
7.1 Some unanswered questions 189
7.2 Spoken and written discourse 196
7.3 Discourse worlds 201
Bibliography 206
Index 276