

Contents

Preface	vii
1. Labor Processes: Moving Beyond Braverman and the Deskilling Debate Mark Wardell	1
2. To Control and Inspire: U.S. Management in the Age of Computer Information Systems and Global Production Philip Kraft	17
3. Braverman, Taylorism, and Technocracy Beverly H. Burris	37
4. Deskilled and Devalued: Changes in the Labor Process in Temporary Clerical Work Jackie Krasas Rogers	53
5. Spread over Time and Place: Redivided Labor and the Role of Technical Infrastructure Joan Greenbaum	79
6. Dialectics of the Labor Process, Consumer Culture, and Class Struggle: The Contradictory Development of the American Automobile Industry David Gartman	93
7. Degradations of Labor, Cultures of Cooperation: Braverman's 'Labor,' Lordstown, and the Social Factory Larry W. Isaac and Larry D. Christiansen	111
8. Gender, Occupational Sex Segregation, and the Labor Process James A. Geschwender with Assistance of Laura E. Geschwender	149

9. Forms of the Labor Process and Labor's Share of Value Thomas L. Steiger	189
10. Reevaluating the Labor Process Debate Chris Smith and Paul Thompson	205
References	233
About the Authors	265
Index	269