

Contents

List of tables	viii
List of contributors	ix
Introduction
Michael Weiner	xi
1 The invention of identity: ‘Self’ and ‘Other’ in pre-war Japan
Michael Weiner	1
2 Ainu: Japan’s indigenous people
Richard Siddle	17
3 Burakumin in contemporary Japan
Ian Neary	50
4 The representation of absence and the absence of representation: Korean victims of the atomic bomb
Michael Weiner	79
5 A model minority: the Chinese community in Japan
Andrea Vasishth	108
6 Troubled national identity: the Ryukyans/Okinawans
Koji Taira	140
7 Nikkeijin: the phenomenon of return migration
Yoko Sellek	178
8 Soto Others and uchi Others: imaging racial diversity, imagining homogeneous Japan
Millie Creighton	211
Index	239

Tables

A2.1	Ainu population in Hokkaidō	45
A2.2	Employment (over 15) by industrial sector (Hokkaidō)	45
A2.3	Households above minimum income threshold for local tax (Hokkaidō)	45
A2.4	Numbers receiving welfare (Hokkaidō)	45
A2.5	Educational advancement (Hokkaidō)	46
3.1	Central government spending on Dōwa projects, 1958–61	62
4.1	Resident Korean population, 1910–45 (prefectural totals)	87
7.1	Trends in the number of apprehended illegal migrant workers, 1981–93	180/1
7.2	Trends in the number of foreigners acquiring ‘spouse or child of a Japanese national’ status, 1986–93	190
7.3	Trends in the number of foreigners with ‘long-term resident’ status, 1990–3	191
7.4	Number of Brazilian nationals entering Japan, 1986–93	198