

Contents

	Preface	vii
	Acknowledgements	ix
	Notes on contributors	x
Introduction	Marking out the middle class(es) David Lockwood	1
Part One Orientations
1	Class analysis and social research Mike Savage	15
2	The debate over the middle classes Tim Butler	26
Part Two Class, gender and ethnicity
3	Gender and service-class formation Anne Witz	41
4	Women's employment and the "middle class" Rosemary Crompton	58
5	Black middle-class formation in contemporary Britain Deborah Phillips and Philip Sarre	76
Part Three Restructuring, employment and middle-class formation
6	Managerial and professional work-histories Colin Mills	95
7	The bureaucratic career: demise or adaptation? Susan Halford and Mike Savage	117
8	The remaking of the state middle class Bob Carter and Peter Fairbrother	133

- 9 "Too much work?" Class, gender and the reconstitution of middle-class domestic labour 148
Nicky Gregson and Michelle Lowe

Part Four Place, space and class

- 10 Migration and middle-class formation in England and Wales, 1981–91 169
Tony Fielding
- 11 Gentrification and the urban middle classes 188
Tim Butler
- 12 A middle-class countryside? 205
John Urry
- 13 The new middle classes and the social constructs of rural living 220
Paul Cloke, Martin Phillips and Nigel Thrift

Part Five Consumption and the middle classes

- 14 Taste among the middle classes, 1968–88 241
Alan Warde and Mark Tomlinson
- 15 Home-ownership and the middle classes 257
Chris Hamnett

Part Six Politics and the middle classes

- 16 Political alignments within the middle classes, 1972–89 275
Anthony Heath and Mike Savage
- 17 Middle-class radicalism revisited 293
Paul Bagguley

Part Seven Conclusions

- 18 The service class revisited 313
John H. Goldthorpe
- 19 Reflections on gender and geography 330
Doreen Massey
- 20 Assets and the middle classes in contemporary Britain 345
Mike Savage and Tim Butler
- Bibliography 359
- Index 381