

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
1 Introduction: The Great Exclusion?	1
Collectivization and Fragmentation	5
The Feminization and Racialization of Poverty and Exclusion	12
Groups and Communities	18
Global Markets, Exclusive Communities?	27
Exclusion and the 'Politics of Enforcement'	33
Conclusions	39
2 Interdependency and Collective Action	40
Private and Public Goods	44
Competition and Collective Action	48
Social Institutions and Exclusive Groups	55
Social Exclusion and the Theory of Clubs	62
Strategic Action, Exclusion and Resistance	69
Conclusions	77
3 Missing Links	80
Two Traditions	85
The Definition and Measurement of Poverty	93
Inequality and Social Security	97

vi	Contents
	Citizenship and Social Integration	101
	An Alternative Perspective	106
	Conclusions	111
4	Globalization and the Fragmentation of Welfare States	113
	The Transformation of Welfare States	118
	Welfare States and the Post-war Order	122
	The Transformation of the Labour Market	127
	Strategic Games over Education: Schools as Clubs	134
	Households, Job Rents, and the Division of Labour	141
	Collective Action and the Poor	148
	Conclusions	158
5	Community, Polarization and Social Exclusion	161
	Communities and Collective Goods	164
	Residential Polarization	170
	The Social Costs of Polarization	176
	Women, Care and Community	181
	Conclusions	186
6	The Politics of Enforcement	189
	Integration and Differentiation in Pluralistic Democracies	194
	'Underclass', Crime and Enforcement	199
	Integration, Workfare and the 'New Social Contract'	206
	Democracy and Enforcement	210
	Conclusions	215
7	Conclusions: States and Social Policy	222
	Globalization and Welfare States	227
	Collective Action and Welfare States	232
	The Future of Nation States and Social Policy	239
	The Possibility of Democratic Community	245
	Bibliography and Sources	249
	Index	273