
Contents

Acknowledgments	xiii
How to Conduct Self-Administered and Mail Surveys: Learning Objectives	xv
1. Overview of Self-Administered Questionnaires	1
Types of Self-Administered Questionnaires	2
Supervised Administration	3
One-to-One Supervision	3
Group Administration	4
Semisupervised Administration	6
Unsupervised Administration	7
Advantages of Self-Administered Questionnaires	9
Cost	9
Sample Related	10
Geographic Coverage	10

Timing of Administration	126
Instructions for Administering Questions	126
Questions Raised by Respondents	128
Source and Reason for Questions	130
Checklist for Writing Questionnaire Specifications	132
Implementation	135
Developing and Producing the Sample	136
Sample Availability	138
Selecting the Sample	140
Addressing the Mailing	141
Planning the Sample File	142
Ethics and Responsibilities	144
Sample Size	145
Other Factors Affecting Response Rates	148
Components of the Field or Mailing Packet	149
Group Administration Packet Checklist	149
Mailing Packet Checklist	150
Follow-Up Procedures	150
Type, Number, and Timing of Follow-Ups	152
Content of the Follow-Up Reminder	156
Follow-Up Procedure Guidelines	159
Sample Tracking	159
Sample Tracking Procedure Guidelines	162
Processing Returns	163
Sample Status Reports	163
Data Reduction	164

Estimating Costs	165
Outgoing Postage	166
Incoming Postage	168
Optional Mailings	169
Printed and Stock Materials	169
Personnel Requirements	172
Exercises	181
Answers	199
Suggested Readings	213
About the Authors	223

Larger Samples	11
Wider Coverage Within a Sample Population	11
Implementation	12
Timing	12
Sensitive Topics	13
Disadvantages of Self-Administered Questionnaires	14
Sample Related	14
Availability of Lists	14
Response Rates	14
Literacy and Language	15
Questionnaire Construction	16
Objective	16
Format	16
Order Effects	18
Administration	19
No Control Over Who Responds	19
Quick Turnaround	20
Self-Administered Questionnaires by Example:
Assault and Vision Studies	21

2. Content of the Questionnaire 23

Information Included in Questionnaires and Deciding Whether a Mail Questionnaire Is Appropriate	23
Literacy	24
Motivation	25
Amenable to Study	26

Checklist: Deciding Whether to Use a Mail Questionnaire	30
Developing the Content of the Questionnaire	31
Adopting Standard Questionnaire Batteries	32
Adapting Sets of Questions	36
Designing Your Own Questions	39
Guidelines for Deciding on the Content of the Questionnaire	39
 3. "User-Friendly" Questionnaires and Response Categories	4
Construction of Questions	4
Short-and-Specific Format	4
Cautionary Use of Vague Qualifiers	4
Cautionary Use of Abstract Terms and Jargon	4
Easy-to-Difficult Progression	5
Logical Order	5
Demographic Questions Placement	5
Checklist for Constructing Questions	5
Open- Versus Closed-Ended Questions	5
Construction of Response Categories	6
Easily Used Categories	6
Mutually Exclusive Categories	6
Multiple Answers	6
Residual "Other"	6
Checklist for Constructing Response Categories	7
Clear and Sufficient Instructions

General	71
Transitional	73
Question Answering	73
Checklist for Writing Instructions	74
Projecting the Surveyor's Ideas Onto the Respondents	75
Checklist for Minimizing Bias	78
Pretesting, Pilot-Testing, and Revising Questionnaires	79
Pretests	79
Pilot Tests	80
Value of Pretests and Pilot Tests	88
Checklist for Conducting Pretests and Pilot Tests	90
. Format of the Questionnaire	93
Length	94
Vertical Format	95
Grids	98
Spacing	98
Print and Paper	99
Consistency	100
Splitting Questions Between Pages	101
Checklist for Formatting Questionnaires	102
Coordinating With Data Entry Personnel and Data Processors	103
Ending the Questionnaire	104
Camera-Ready Copy	104

Checklist for Finalizing the Questionnaire	105
Correspondence and the Motivation of Respondents	105
Use of Letterhead	107
Information About Sponsorship	108
Dates	108
Salutation	109
Purpose of the Study	109
Reasons Why an Individual's Participation Is Important	110
Incentives to Encourage Respondent Participation	111
Monetary or Material Incentives	112
Other Forms of Motivation	113
Use of Advance Letters	114
How Material Incentives Will Be Provided or Distributed	114
Realistic Estimate of the Time Required to Complete the Questionnaire	115
How and Why the Respondent Was Chosen	117
Explanation of Confidentiality and How the Data Will Be Handled	118
Provision of a Name and Phone Number to Call for Information	119
When and How to Return the Questionnaire	120
Checklist for Motivating Respondents and Writing Cover Letters	121
Writing Questionnaire Specifications	122
Objective of the Study	123
Selection and Tracking of the Sample	124