

Contents

PART I. EIGHT KEY COMPONENTS OF COMMUNITY INTERVENTION PROJECTS

1. An Introduction: Developing a Coordinated
Community Response 3
Ellen L. Pence and Melanie F. Shepard
2. Some Thoughts on Philosophy 25
Ellen L. Pence
3. Developing Policies and Protocols 41
Ellen L. Pence and Coral McDonnell
4. Enhancing Networking Among Service Providers:
Elements of Successful Coordination Strategies 65
Denise Gamache and Mary Asmus
5. Building Monitoring and Tracking Systems 89
Dennis R. Falk and Nancy Helgeson
6. Advocacy for Battered Women: Implications for a
Coordinated Community Response 115
Melanie F. Shepard
7. Batterer Intervention Programs:
The Past, and Future Prospects 127
Fernando Mederos

8. Undoing Harm to Children: The Duluth Family Visitation Center Martha McMahon with Jeremy Neville-Sorvilles and Linda Schubert	151
9. Evaluating a Coordinated Community Response Melanie F. Shepard	169
PART II. FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS AND ADAPTATIONS OF THE DULUTH MODEL
10. Just Like Men? A Critical View of Violence by Women Shamita Das Dasgupta	195
11. The Silence Surrounding Sexual Violence: The Issue of Marital Rape and the Challenges It Poses for the Duluth Model Kersti Yllö	223
12. Hamilton Abuse Intervention Project: The Aotearoa Experience Roma Balzer	239
13. Pick 'n Mix or Replication: The Politics and Process of Adaptation Robyn Holder	255
Epilogue Ellen L. Pence	273
Appendix	275
Index	277
About the Editors	291
About the Contributors	293