

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	xii
Introduction	I
Part I. Civilization
Civilization: Contents, Discontents, Malcontents	II
Two Neglected Pioneers of Civilizational Analysis: The Cultural Perspectives of R. Stewart Culin and Frank Hamilton Cushing	22
Culin, Cushing, and the American Origins of Asiatic Civilization	23
(1) Progress, Evolution, Civilization	24
(2) Religious Origins of Civilization	25
(3) Form and Variation in Civilizational Expression	27
(4) Civilization—Multicentric or Unicentric Origins?	27
(5) Beyond Primitive Classification	29
(6) Microecological and Macrosocial Research	36
Conclusion	44
Asian American Contacts before Columbus: Alternative Understandings for Civilization, Acculturation, and Ethnic Minority Status in the United States	46
Introduction	46
Religious Orthodoxy and the Theory of Asiatic-Amerindian Origins	47
The Limited Assault on Ecclesiocracy	52
Lewis Henry Morgan (1818–1881)	52
Daniel Garrison Brinton (1837–1899)	54
America the Cradle of Asia: C. W. Brooks and R. Stewart Culin	58
The Triumph of the Acostan Position	69
The Science of History and the Theory of Social Change	76
Teggart's Science of History	77
Teggart's Theory of Social Change	77

Weber's Contribution to a Science of History	79
Weber's Theory of Social Change	80
The Acceptance, Rejection, and Reconstruction of Histories: On Some Controversies in the Study of Social and Cultural Change	85
Evolutionism and Functionalism	85
Basic Evolutionism	85
Functionalism	91
Evolutionist Functionalism	93
The Neopositivist Position	94
Dilemmas of the Neopositivist Approach	109
Alternatives to Neopositivism	114
Neofunctionalism	114
The "Mythic" Alternative	116
A "Phenomenological" Alternative	119
Conclusion	123
 Part II. Race, Culture, and History
The Race Relations Cycle of Robert E. Park	127
The Doctrine of Obstacles	128
Criticism of the Race Cycle	130
Park's Cycle as a Model	132
Park's Cycle as Theory: Unsolved Problems	134
Interactionism and the Study of Race Relations at the Macrosociological Level: The Contribution of Herbert Blumer	136
The Significance of Asians in American Society	149
American Racism in Total Institutions	150
Asians and the Beginnings of Modern Institutional Racism	154
Conclusion	158
Conflict and the Web of Group Affiliation in San Francisco's Chinatown, 1850-1910	160
Clans	162
Hui Kuan	163
Secret Societies	166
Political Activities	167
Protest	167

Criminal Activities	168
Benevolent Activities	169
Conflict and the Web of Group Affiliation in Chinatown	170
Cherished Values and Civil Rights	177
Betterment of Humankind	178
Ironic Time	179
Nature of Business	181
Unsettling Thing	182
No History	184
Black History	185
American Rights	186
Legitimation for Idealism	188
 Part III. Functionalism and Interactionism
System and Function in Antebellum Southern Sociology	191
Henry Hughes: System and Slavery	192
George Fitzhugh: The Functions of Social Conflict	194
Conclusion	199
Le Conte, Royce, Teggart, Blumer: A Berkeley Dialogue on Sociology, Social Change, and Symbolic Interaction	202
Introduction	202
The Science of History and the Theory of Social Change at Berkeley	204
Teggart's Critique of Comte and the Phenomenology of "Release"	209
The Phenomenology of Social Change: Teggart and Blumer	212
Teggart and the Idea of Release	212
Reverie and the Folkways: Blumer's Formulation of Social Change	215
Conclusion	220
Legitimacy and Consensus in Lipset's America: From Washington to Watergate	222
The United States as the First New Nation	223
The Black American in Lipset's Political Sociology	227
The Revolt of the Students	230
Watergate	232
Political Sociology in the Context of American Society	234
Conclusion	240
Symbolic Interactionism and Macrosociology	243

The Existential Self: Language and Silence in the Formation of Human Identity	250
Notes	259
Index	325