I. Nociception, Pain, and Consciousness

1. From Nociceptor to Cortical Activity	1
William D. Willis, Jr.
2. The Role of the Cerebral Cortex in the Experience of Pain ...	21
Dan R. Kenshalo, Jr. and Diana K. Douglass
3. Consciousness, Pain, and Cortical Activity	35
Burkhardt Bromm
4. Consciousness and Cognitive Brain Potentials	61
John E. Desmedt and Claude Tomberg
5. Phantom Limb Pain and the Brain	73
Ronald Melzack
6. Consciousness and Neuroscience	83
Ralph Adolphs and Antonio R. Damasio
7. Pain: A Case Study for the Mind-Body Problem	99
Peter Bieri

II. Thalamic Pain Processing

8. Slow and Fast Oscillations of Intralaminar Thalamic Neurons in the Sleeping and Aroused Brain	111
Mircea Steriade
9. Thalamic Processing of Visceral Pain	125
Christiane Vahle-Hinz, Johannes Brüggemann, and Klaus-D. Kniffki
10. The Use of Microelectrodes in the Human Brain	143
Ronald R. Tasker

11. Pain Processing in the Ventrocaudal Nucleus of Human Thalamus 175
Frederick A. Lenz and Patrick M. Dougherty
12. Subcortical Stimulation in Humans and Pain 187
Jan Gybels and Ron Kupers

III. Windows into Pain-Related Brain Activity

13. Imaging the Brain in Pain: Potentials, Limitations, and Implications 201
Kenneth L. Casey, Satoshi Minoshima, Thomas J. Morrow, Robert A. Koeppe, and Kirk A. Frey
14. PET Imaging of Pain-Related Somatosensory Cortical Activity 213
Anthony K. P. Jones and Stuart W. G. Derbyshire
15. Anatomic and Functional Neuro-imaging in Headache 229
Nabih M. Ramadan and Panayiotis Mitsias
16. Pain-Related Generators of Laser-Evoked Brain Potentials: Brain Mapping and Dipole Modelling 245
Andrew C. N. Chen and Burkhardt Bromm
17. Magnetoencephalography in the Investigation of the Cortical Pain Processing System 267
Robert Laudahn, Holger Kohlhoff, and Burkhardt Bromm

IV. Psychological Images of Pain

18. The Affective Dimension of Pain: A Model 283
C. Richard Chapman
19. From Nociception to Pain: The Role of Emotion 303
Kenneth D. Craig
20. Hierarchical Clustering of Pain and Emotion Descriptors: Toward a Revision of the McGill Pain Questionnaire. 319
W. Crawford Clark, J. David Fletcher, Malvin N. Janal, and J. Douglas Carroll
21. The Corticalization of Chronic Pain 331
Niels Birbaumer, Hertha Flor, Werner Lutzenberger, and Thomas Elbert
22. Pain and Depression 345
Hans Christoph Diener, Rudolf van Schayck, and Oliver Kastrup

V. Abnormal Pain States

23. Evidence that Secondary Hyperalgesia Involves Increased Pain to Input from Nociceptors 357
Fernando Cervero, Richard A. Meyer, and James N. Campbell
24. Pain Syndromes in Patients with CNS Lesions and a Comparison with Nociceptive Pain 367
Jörgen Boivie
25. Assessment of Nociceptive Pathways with Laser-Evoked Potentials in Normal Subjects and Patients 377
Rolf-Detlef Treede, Jürgen Lorenz, Klaus Kunze, and Burkhart Bromm
26. Pain in Polyneuropathy 393
Allan L. Bernstein
27. Increased Thermal Pain Sensitivity in Patients with Fibromyalgia Syndrome 401
Stephen J. Gibson, Gerald Granges, Geoff O. Littlejohn, and Robert D. Helme
28. Brain-stem Mechanisms Underlying Craniofacial Pain and its Modulation 413
Barry J. Sessle
29. Cerebral Mechanisms Relevant to Migraine 423
Peter J. Goadsby

VI. Assessment of Drug-Induced Pain Relief

30. Endorphins, Pain Relief, and Euphoria 439
Walter Zieglgänsberger, Thomas R. Tölle, Alexander Zimprich, Volker Höllt, and Rainer Spanagel
31. The Pharmacologic-Electroencephalogram of Analgesic and Psychotropic Drugs 459
Werner M. Herrmann
32. Comparative Evaluation of Analgesic Efficacy of Drugs 473
Eckehard Scharein and Burkhart Bromm
33. Antidepressant Drugs as Treatments for Chronic Pain: Efficacy and Mechanisms 501
Mitchell B. Max

34.	Opioids and Diffuse Noxious Inhibitory Control (DNIC) in the Rat	517
	Daniel Le Bars, Didier Bouhassira, and Luis Villanueva
35.	Electrophysiologic Studies on Morphine Analgesia in Humans	541
	Jean Claude Willer and Daniel Le Bars
36.	The Effects of Analgesics on Mood in Patients with Pain of Different Etiologies	559
	Stanley L. Wallenstein, George Heidrich, III, Robert F. Kaiko, and Raymond W. Houde
	Subject Index	571
