PART ONE TUINA FOR ADULTS

Chapter One Introduction	2
I. Tuina Therapy	2
1. Characteristics	2
2. Indications	3
3. Contraindications and cautions	4
II. Treatment Mechanism	4
1. The TCM perspective	4
2. The modern scientific perspective	5
III. Essentials in Study	5
1. A solid theoretical background	6
2. Good understanding of each manipulation	6
3. Extensive training	6
IV. Commonly Used Points and Related Channels	6
Chapter Two Exercises for the Practitioner	62
I. Finger Exercises	62
1. Single finger exercises	62
2. Three finger exercises	63
3. Five finger exercises	64
II. Hand and Forearm Exercises	65
1. Basic positions for the hand	65
2. Basic positions for the arm	66
3. Basic exercises for the arm and hand	67
4. Circling exercises	69
5. Opposing the palms	70

Chapter Three Manipulations	72
I. Individual Manipulations	72
1. Gliding and stretching	72
2. Pitching up and squeezing	76
3. Deep pressure strokes	80
4. Warming with friction	83
5. Tapotement	85
6. Oscillating	87
7. Joint adjustments and passive manipulations	89
II. Combined Manipulations	91
• 1. Grasping and pinching	91
2. Grasping and holding	92
3. Kneading and grasping	92
4. Grasping and pulling away	92
5. Grasping and marking	93
6. Grasping and lifting	93
7. Plucking and grasping	94
8. Pulling and grasping	94
9. Kneading and pinching	95
10. Kneading and vibrating	95
11. Marking and kneading	96
12. Pressing and pushing	96
13. Brushing and flicking	97
14. Point pressing and rotating with the finger	97
15. Shaking and pulling	97
III. Special Manipulations	98
1. Hand rolling and broad circular kneading with the forearm	98
2. Circular kneading with the forearm while grasping and pinching	99
3. Broad circular kneading with the elbow, and point pressing	99
4. Pounding while grasping and pinching	100
5. Rolling, tapping and slapping	100
6. Pounding and chopping with circular rubbing	101
7. Brushing and flicking with pounding and

chopping	102
8. Tapping and slapping with pounding and chopping	102
9. Trampling (Cai Qiao Fa)	103
10. Scraping with a tool (Gua Fa)	103
IV. Passive Movements	104
1. Neck	104
2. Upper limb	106
3. Back, lumbar area and spinal column	108
4. Lower limb	110
V. Commonly Used Sequences	111
1. Head and face	111
2. Neck	113
3. Back and lumbar area	114
4. Chest and hypochondrium	115
5. Abdomen	116
6. Arms	117
7. Legs	118
Chapter Four Clinical Applications	120
1. Internal, External and Other Disorders	120
1. Common cold	120
2. Hypertension	122
3. Epigastric pain	124
4. Gastric prolapse	127
5. Hiccups	128
6. Diarrhea	130
7. Constipation	133
8. Insomnia	135
9. Dizziness	138
10. Headache	140
11. Tinnitus	144
12. Cerebro-vascular accident	145
13. Facial paralysis	147
14. Retention of urine	149
15. Lumbar pain	151

16. Rheumatoid arthritis	154
17. Degenerative lumbar spondylitis	155
18. Prolapse of the lumbar intervertebral disc	157
19. Mastitis	158
20. Post-natal aching	160
II. Osteotraumatic Disorders	161
1. Stiff neck	161
2. Dislocation of the cervical vertebral joint	164
3. Cervical spondylosis	165
4. Periarthritis of the shoulder	167
5. Dislocation of the shoulder joint	168
6. Dislocation of the elbow joint	170
7. Tennis elbow	170
8. Sprain and contusion of the wrist joint	171
9. Injury of the metacarpophalangeal joint	173
10. Sudden sprain of the chest and hypochondrium	174

22. Traumatic fibrositis of gastrocnemius	186
23. Sprain of the ankle joint	187
24. Sprain and contusion of the achilles tendon	188
25. Dislocation of the mandibular joint	189
Chapter Five Self-Massage	191
I. Characteristics	191
1. A broad range of indications	191
2. Cheap and convenient	191

3. Easy to learn and practise	191
4. Effective	191
I. Key Points for Attention	191
1. Right attitude	191
2. Right conditions	191
3. Right place	192
4. Right approach	192
5. Combining massage with other regular habits	192
II. Preparation	192
1. Medium	192
2. Attire	193
3. Posture, breathing and mind	193
III. Routine Procedures	193
1. Routine procedures for self-massage	193
2. Routine procedures for exercises	195
IV. Exercises	195
1. Limbering the hand	195
2. Limbering the arm	197
3. Benefiting the brain	198
4. Brightening the eye	200
5. Opening the nose	201
6. Opening the ear	202
7. Mouth exercise	203
8. Neck relaxing	205
9. Chest and hypochondrium exercises	205
10. Strengthening the lumbar area and Kidney	206
11. Strengthening the legs	207
12. Rubbing Yongquan (KID 1) and reinforcing Yin	209
13. Broad circular kneading the abdomen and the Lower Dantian	210
14. Strengthening Yang and consolidating Vital Qi	212

PART TWO

PEDIATRIC TUINA

Chapter Six Introduction	215
---------------------------------------	------------

I. Age	215
II. Manipulation Procedures	215
III. Reinforcing and Reducing	215
IV. Selection of Points	216
V. Operating Order	216
VI. Indications and Contraindications	216
VII. Other Points for Attention	216
VIII. Medium	217
1. Talcum powder	217
2. Ginger juice	217
3. Chinese onion juice	217
4. Peppermint juice	218
5. Sesame oil	218
Chapter Seven Commonly Used Manipulations	219
I. Basic Manipulations	219
1. Pushing (Tui Fa)	219
2. Grasping (Na Fa)	220
3. Pressing (An Fa)	221
4. Circular rubbing (Mo Fa)	221
5. Marking (Qia Fa)	222
6. Kneading (Rou Fa)	222
7. Circular gliding (Yun Fa)	223
8. Piston rubbing (Cuo Fa)	224
9. Pinching (Nie Fa)	224
10. Tapping (Kou Fa)	224
II. Special Manipulations	225
1. Ape Picking up Fruit (Yuan Hou Zhai Guo)	225
2. Wasps Entering the Cave (Huang Feng Ru Dong)	225
3. Heaven's Gate to the Tiger's Mouth (Tian Men Ru Hu Kou)	226

8. Pressing Jianjing (An Jian Jing GB 21)	227
9. Pressing and Rubbing down the Sides of the Body (An Xuan Zou Cuo Mo)	227
10. Kneading the Umbilicus and Guiwei (midway between the coccyx and the anus) (Rou Qi Ji Gui Wei)	227
11. Pinching and Lifting Along both Sides of the Spine (Nie Ji)	228
Chapter Eight Commonly Used Points and Areas	229
I. Head and Face	229
1. Tianmen	229
2. Kangong	229
3. Baihui	231
4. Taiyang	231
5. Erhougaogu	231
6. Xinmen	232
7. Yintang	232
8. Shangen	232
9. Zhuntou	233
10. Renzhong	233
11. Chengjiang	233
12. Yingxiang	234
13. Dicang	234
14. Erfengmen	234
15. Tinggong	234
16. Yaguan	235
17. Fengchi	235
18. Tianzhugu	236
19. Qiaogong	236
I. Chest and Abdomen	236
1. Tiantu	236
2. Tanzhong	237
3. Rupang	238
4. Zhongwan	238

5. Shenque	238
6. Dantian	239
7. Dujiao	239
8. Fuyinyang	239
III. Back and Lumbar Area	240
1. Dazhui	240
2. Feishu	240
3. Yaoshu	241
4. Pishu	242
5. Shenshu	242
6. Qijiegu	242
7. Guiwei	242
8. Jizhu	243
IV. Upper Limb	243
1. Pijing	244
2. Weijing	245
3. Ganjing	246
4. Xinjing	246
5. Feijing	246
6. Shenjing	247
7. Dachangjing	247
8. Xiaochangjing	247
9. Sihengwen	248
10. Banmen	248
11. Neibagua	248
12. Yunturushui and Yunshuirutu	249
13. Xiaotianxin	249
14. Dahengwen and Zongjin	250
15. Neilaogong	250
16. Sanguan	251
17. Liufu	251
18. Tianheshui	251
19. Shixuan	252
20. Ershanmen	252
21. Wailaogong	252
22. Errenshangma	253

23. Hegu	253
24. Waibagua	253
25. Yiwofeng	254
26. Boyangchi	254
27. Quchi	254
28. Wuzhijie	255
29. Shangyang	255
30. Guanchong	255
31. Shaoshang	256
32. Shaoze	256
V. Lower Limb	256
1. Baihongwo	256
2. Guiyan	257
3. Zusanli	257
4. Chengshan	257
5. Weizhong	258
6. Sanyinjiao	258
7. Jiexi	258
8. Kunlun	259
9. Pucan	259
10. Taixi	259
11. Yongquan	260

Chapter Nine Treatment for Commonly Encountered

Disorders	261
1. Common cold	261
2. Summer fever	262
3. Cough	263
4. Diarrhea	265
5. Dysentery	267
