

Contents

LIST OF FIGURES	6
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	7
NOTES	8
WARNING!	9
A FEW WORDS OF PREPARATION	11

Introduction 14

A Single Issue Approach 14 A Bit of History 15 Child Sexual Abuse 18
The Counselling 19 The Programme Idea 20 The Metaphor Tools 22
The Programme Itself 22 The Design of this Book 23 A Note 26

1. A New Counselling Programme 27

The Structure of the Programme 27

The Educative Stage 27 The Future-Focused Stage 27 The Support Stage
28 Introductory Meetings 28 Group Counselling 29 Seeing Similarities for Themselves 29 Sharing Support 29 Cheaper and Better
30 Individual Counselling 30 Keeping Hold of Privacy 30 Control over the Counselling Situation 31 Deserving Special Treatment 31
Using Alternatives 32 After Counselling 32 The Next Stage 32 Going on to Help Others 33 Being Free to be Independent 33

Progress in the Programme 34

Surviving the Abuse 34 Surviving after the Abuse 35 Asking for Help
35 Joining the Programme 36 Making Progress Through Turning Points 38 Deciding to Leave the Programme 41 Successfully Ordinary!
42

The Reasoning of the Programme 44

Using Research 44 Using Definitions 45 Using Metaphors 47

The Time Perspective 50

Several Sources of Delay 50 The Seriousness of Sexual Abuse 52

The Philosophy of the Programme 53

A Clear Philosophy 54 ASCSA's Philosophy 55

2. Using Metaphors to Explain and Reassure 57

Listing these Tools 57 Describing these Tools 58

About Abuse 59

The Invisible Trap: the emotional place where the abusers put the victims
59 The Wall: how useful psychological defences can also create problems
62 The Impossible Jigsaw: the confusion experienced by the child during the abuse 67 The 'flu: 'flu symptoms as a comparison to reactions to sexual abuse 69 Bumped Knees and Broken Legs: a comparison between serious and slight problems 71 A Serious Fright: the idea of trauma and its symptoms 73 The Storage Cupboard: how the memories stay so able to get in the way 80 The Bruise: why survivors can be extra-sensitive to small things 82 Stealing a Pencil: the abuser's responsibility for putting the child into the trap 84 Why Me?-The Answer: the reasons why victims are picked by abusers 87 Circles of Hopelessness: helpless in confusion, getting nowhere fast 88 The Monty Python Foot: confidence crashes; putting yourself down 89

About Counselling

91

The Fogbank: acknowledging survivors' lost and lonely feelings 91 Separating 'you' from 'it': emphasizing that the symptoms of sexual abuse are temporary 94 Untangling the Bowl of Spaghetti: what we are trying to do in counselling 95 Spring-Cleaning: sorting out all the memories 97 Mirrors: methods of looking at your whole self 99 Designing a new Future: planning where to go with your life 100 Breaking the Chain: responsibility to children and to future generations 99 About Surviving 101 It's Very Easy to Sexually Abuse a Child: reassurance that it really is difficult to understand 101 The Cross-roads: choices about love and sex are difficult 103 The Boomerang: memories, thoughts, feelings and problems keep coming back 105 Painkillers: no-one likes pain; we all cope with it as best we can 106

About Progress

111

The Government Health Warning 111 The Compass: This Allows us to Measure Progress 112 The Confusions: Sexual Abuse is Always Confusing 115 Same, Different, Opposite: Judgments and Comparisons 118 Vertigo: Feeling Confused while Making Progress 122 The Garden Gate: Testing the Water when Changes Start 123

3. How Counsellors Guide Recovery

126

Some Family Issues

126

Family of Origin 126 Children already Vulnerable 127 The Exception: when Brother and Sister Sex is NOT Abuse 128 The Double whammy 129 Current Partner and Family 131 Continuation of Abuse 135

Gender Issues

136

The Counsellor's Gender is a very Important Consideration 136 The Gender of the Examples and Case Histories I have used in this Book 136 The Gender of the Abuser Described by the Survivor 137 The Gender of the Abusers and Victims in Sexual Abuse Amongst Brothers and Sisters 137 The Different Responses to Sexual Abuse in Male and Female Survivors 137

The Realities of the Secret

137

The Trauma History 138 Particular Issues 143

Practical Points

146

Giving Quality Time 146 Giving Information 147

Giving Choice 150

Technical note

153

4. More Guidelines for Counsellors

155

More Metaphors

155

Parts of People' 155	Using these 'Metaphors' 157
Mottoes		158
Mottoes we Suggest 158	Mottoes Survivors Choose 159
Hope and Humour		160
Encouraging Hope 160	Encouraging Humour 161
5. Five Survivors' Histories		163
The Interview Project		164
Deni: Working hard – getting nowhere 165	Jenny: The wasted years 170
Anna: Living with Hatred - wishing my life away 175	Cheryl: Always the question 'why?' 184
Adrian: I still feel like killing him but... 188
Thoughts about these Histories		194
The tragedy of sexual abuse 194	The need for painkillers, like it or not 194
The anger and the frustration 195	The depressive and suicidal temptations 195
The fears and confusions 196	The distrust of professionals 196
Each survivor shows different points of interest 197	Relationship issues 197
Intrusive memories 197	The hope and humour on the horizon 197
6. Setting up this Programme		198
Programme Development		199
Statutory organisations 199	Voluntary organisations 200
Development Difficulties		200
Difficulties starting the counselling 201	Difficulties during the counselling 201
Difficulties finishing the counselling 203
Skill Development		205
Recognising relevant metaphors 205	Timing the use of the metaphors 206
Further Developments		207
Wider uses for metaphors 207	Wider implications for professionals 208
Still growing 209
Appendices		211
1. Questions for case histories 211	2. Leaflets and papers 213	3. How counselling can help after sexual abuse 217
4. Reactions to a fright 220	5. Questionnaires and statistics 223	6. Some more poems 232
7. A cross index of survivors 244	8. An alphabetical index of metaphors 245	9. A cross index of metaphors 246
REFERENCES		248
FURTHER READING		249

List of Figures

A.1	Case example – Yes, it had happened	16
A.2	Poem example – The crime	24
1.1	Case example – Life gets easier	34
1.2	Case example – Counting the bricks	35
1.3	Poem example – The first step	36
1.4	Poem example – What happened?	39
1.5	Case example – I wasn't embarrassed, just angry	41
1.6	Case example – Yes, life is totally different!	42
1.7	Case example – Now it's because I want to	43
1.8	Case example – Room for mischief and fun	44
2.1	Case example – Through the tunnel	60
2.2	Case example – The wall	63
2.3	Poem example – My wall	64
2.4	Case example – My wall is coming down	65
2.5	Case example – I must be stupid!	68
2.6	Questionnaire – Post Traumatic Stress responses	75
2.7	Poem example – Couldn't sleep much...	78
2.8	Case example – The bruise	82
2.9	Case example – The trap	86
2.10	Case example – Neil's story; a child sexual abuse perpetrator	88
2.11	Case example – But I was there	89
2.12	Case example – Sexual abuse is always complicated	94
2.13	Poem example – Why do I hurt myself?	108
2.14	Case example – Doing without the painkillers	110
2.15	Case example – The confusions of the Rubik's Cube	119
2.16	Case example – A 40 year-old teenager!	123
2.17	Poem example – Don't be afraid...get help	124
3.1	Case example – It was impossible to help her until...	130
3.2	Poem example – For my love	132
3.3	Poem example – Secrets	135
3.4	Case example – The tragedy of a sister's sacrifice	140
3.5	Case example – That's why...	145
4.1	Case example – I can now	161
4.2	Case example – Humour helped a great deal	161
6.1	Case example – Metaphors and poems can help with other abuse	208
B.1	PTSR Statistics – Symptoms from the questionnaire	225
B.2	PTSR Statistics – In order of frequency	226
B.3	PTSR statistics – Number of symptoms per survivor	227
B.4	PTSR Statistics – Three categories	228
B.5	PTSR Statistics – Associated problems	229
B.6	Poem example – Is there no end?	233
B.7	Poem example – Living in my mind	234
B.8	Poem example – Hidden	235
B.9	Poem example – He picked me	236
B.10	Poem example – The auto-thoughts of a robot	237
B.11	Poem example – Someone	239
B.12	Poem example – If you bought damaged goods...	241
B.13	Poem example – The lamp post on the hill	242
B.14	Poem example – The result	243