

CONTENTS

I.	Introduction	107
II.	Formation of the Traditional Eight Trigrams	108
III.	Formation of the Chen's Eight Trigrams	109
IV.	The Former Eight Trigrams of Fu Hsi .	111
V.	The Binary Carry-Over of Computer Storage is Just the Same as the Solid and Broken Lines of the Eight Trigrams	112
VI.	The Changeability Principles of the Chen's Trigrams	114
VII.	Yin (Negative) Yang (Positive), Five Elements, Celestial Stems, Dual-Horary Branches, and Hua Chai (60s' Progression)	118
VIII.	Relation Between the Eight Trigrams and the Five Elements	119
IX.	Permutation and Subjugation of the Five Elements	119
X.	Relation Between the Five Elements and Dates of the Four Seasons	120
XI.	The Twelve Meridians and the Five Elements of the Former Eight Trigrams	120

XII.	The Twelve Meridians of the Chen's Later Eight Trigrams	123
XIII.	Chen's Vitality and Blood Schedule .	125
XIV.	The Great Terminus of the Human Body — the Umbilicus (Point Shen- Chued, CV-8)	126
XV.	The Three Principles of the Chen's Yi Acupuncture Therapy	127
XVI.	Acupuncture Terapy by Corresponding Balance of the Eight Trigrams	137
XVII.	Acupuncture Therapy by Manipulation of the "Strong" and the "Weak" Lines	141
XVIII.	Acupuncture Treatment by the Arran- gement of the Proper Order of the Eight Trigrams (Ref. Par. 3 and Diagram 7 of Sec. XV.)	146
XIX.	Several Clinical Cases	147
XX.	Designing of Chen's Acupuncture Computer	152