
Contents

FOREWORD	vii
PREFACE	xiii
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xvii
Chapter 1: The Idea of Problem-Oriented Policing	3
Chapter 2: Policing in the United States Before the Advent of the Problem-Oriented Approach	29
Chapter 3: Pioneering Efforts	47
Chapter 4: Organizational Change Issues	69
Chapter 5: The Oakland Project	91
Chapter 6: Defining a Problem: First-Generation Change Agents	103
Chapter 7: Addressing the Problem: Inventing the Peer Review Panel	151
Chapter 8: Documenting the Solution	221
Chapter 9: A Decentralized Problem-Oriented Activity	245
Chapter 10: Top-Down Problem Solving: The Compstat Paradigm	257
Chapter 11: Community Policing and Problem-Oriented Policing	269
Chapter 12: Commitment and Community in Problem-Oriented Interventions	293
Chapter 13: Extending the Approach to Interagency Problem Solving	317

POSTSCRIPT	329
APPENDIX: Session Rating Form	333
REFERENCES	335
INDEX	343
ABOUT THE AUTHORS	353