

Contents

Introduction Anna Giacalone Ramat	1 ↖
* Typology and language acquisition: the case of relative clauses Bernard Comrie	19 ↘
* Relative clauses in early bilingual development: Transfer and universals Stephen Matthews and Virginia Yip	39
Learner varieties and language types. The case of indefinite pronouns in non-native Italian Giuliano Bernini	83
Adnominal possession: combining typological and second language perspectives Björn Hammarberg and Maria Koptjevskaja-Tamm	125 ✓
Gerunds as optional categories in second language learning Anna Giacalone Ramat	181
Iconicity and finiteness in the development of early grammar in French as L2 and in French-based creoles Daniel Véronique	221
* Lexicalisation of aspectual structures in English and Japanese Yasuhiro Shirai and Yumiko Nishi	267

Using nouns for reference maintenance: A seeming contradiction in L2 discourse Henriette Hendricks	291
Crosslinguistic comparison and second language acquisition: an approach to Topic and Left-detachment constructions from the perspective of spoken language Rosanna Sornicola	327
Typology and information organisation: perspective taking and language-specific effects in the construal of events Mary Carroll and Christiane von Stutterheim	365
Typological comparison and interlanguage phonology: maps or gaps between typology and language learning of sound systems? Stefania Giannini	403
Index of subjects	441
Index of authors	447
List of contributors	453