

CONTENTS

Illustrations	page vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Notes on style	ix
Abbreviations used in references	x
Introduction	1
1 Space: travel books and English confessional geography	13
The birth of the travel guide	13
Tours through a divided Europe	18
The popish continent	28
A common Protestant world?	44
Protestant England, Christian England	61
2 Time: English confessional chronology	67
A history of the reformation	67
English Protestantism and its European past	74
The middle ages: where was your church beyond England?	101
Protestantism and Christendom in the English historical imagination	120
3 England in Europe: the rise of a great power	125
A famous victory: England's emergence as a world power	125
Who can style them Christians? England and the Dutch, 1660–1674	132
Great Turk, universal monarch and antichrist: England and France, 1660–1702	152
The Protestant interest: England and France, 1697–1756	192
4 Europe in England: the opening of politics	220
The rise of party in England	220
Protestantism and Christendom in the exclusion crisis	223
Europe, religion, and the revolution of 1688–1689	241

Europe and constitutional disputes under the late Stuarts	253
Europe and constitutional disputes under the Hanoverians	268
Defences of anglicanism: religion and Europe under Charles II	284
Catholic versus reformed: the fissure in the church, 1689–1720	313
Catholic and reformed: consensus in church politics after 1689	340
Conclusion: the paradox of peculiarity	354
Index	364

ILLUSTRATIONS

1. Frontispiece of Gilbert Burnet, The history of the reformation of the church of England (1681). Reproduced by kind permission of the Syndics of Cambridge University Library page 71
2. Detail of An exact description of Vienna (1683). By kind permission of the Bodleian Library, University of Oxford, reference (shelfmark) Ashm.H.24(58) 174
3. Frontispiece of The most Christian Turk: the life and bloody reign of Lewis XIV (1690). By kind permission of the British Library 190