

CONTENTS

Preface	xi
Original Preface and Acknowledgments	xiii
A Note on the Text	xvii
List of Illustrations	xix

PART I: THE SETTING

Chapter One: Introduction	3
1. Basic concepts and terms	5
2. Lamas and shamans: a problematic relation?	17
3. The chapters	37
Chapter Two: Perspectives on the Past	43
1. Historical development of Tingchim's political, economic and inter-ethnic relations	43
2. Relation between bon and Buddhism or the creation of village religion	56
3. Origins and migrations of the Lhapos	65
3.1. Notes on the origins of the Namgyal dynasty	66
3.2. Gye Bumsa and the chief clans of Sikkim	69
3.3. Origins and migration history of Tingchim's descent groups	74
4. Definition of the person in terms of household, lineage, village, region and social class	81
Chapter Three: The Hidden Land and its Supernatural Population	85
1. Taming of the country and its inhabitants: Sikkim as a beyul	86
2. Living in a sacred hidden land	91
3. The pho lha mo lha : ancestors and lineage protectors	93
4. The supernatural beings of the territory	103
5. Kangchendzönga's pre-Buddhist identities	106

6. Perceptions of the supernatural and questions of identity	110
Chapter Four: Village Religion: Ritual of Illness	117
1. On the cause of illness	118
2. Diagnosing the cause of illness	124
2.1. The sequence of cure and its ultimate ritual: the 'red' offering	126
2.2. Levels of ritual co-operation	140
Chapter Five: The Shamans	145
1. Who gets initiated as a pawo or a nejum	146
2. The initiation ritual	153
3. The influence of Buddhism on the shamans' ritual practice	157
4. Interaction with ancestors	161
5. Looking north: comparative notes with Mongolian shamanism	165

PART II: THE LAND

Chapter Six: The Land, its Workers, Harvests and Rituals	173
1. The land and its workers	173
1.1. Agricultural tenant farmers and labourers of Nepalese origin	176
2. The Indian merchants	181
3. Harvests	185
3.1. The agricultural cycle and animal husbandry	185
3.2. Hunting and gathering	188
4. The land and its rituals	189
4.1. Harvest offerings by the pawo in honour of the pho lha mo lha	192
4.2. Harvest offerings by the bongthing in honour of ajo anyo and latsen	194
4.3. Harvest offerings by the lama in honour of Kabur Kangtsen	196
4.4. Protecting the harvest: the Sesung Gomchen and the controlling of hail	204
4.5. The Nesol : ritual of the land par excellence	207

4.6. Other harvest and hunting rituals	210
4.7. Losung: the farmer's New Year	212
 Chapter Seven: The Land, its Problems and Ritual
Solutions	216
1. Land and other disputes with non-relatives and outsiders	217
1.1. Disputes with Nepalese and other outsiders	218
1.2. Curses and poisoning accusations: land and other disputes between non-related Lhopsos	223
2. Polluting and destroying objects of nature within the village	228
3. Wrong action performed against the sacred land beyond the village: the case of Rathong Chu hydro-electric project	234
 PART III: THE HOUSEHOLD
 Chapter Eight: Life and Ritual Cycles of Household
Members	245
1. The household	245
2. Inter-ethnic marriages	252
3. Rituals of the household and its members	254
3.1. Birth	257
3.2. Marriage	258
3.3. Building a new house and establishing a corporate household	270
3.4. Joining the monastery	271
3.5. Severe illness and death	273
 Chapter Nine: Curing and Protective Rituals of the Household	282
1. Ritual solutions to land disputes among relatives	283
2. Old household feuds	286
3. Ritual and other solutions to problems related to women and marriage	288
4. Ritual solutions to the lingering consciousness of dead kin members	294

PART IV: THE VILLAGE AND THE STATE

Chapter Ten: Ritual, the Village and the State	305
1. Local administration and the village's unity	305
2. Buddhism and the village's relations with the outside world in pre-1975 Sikkim	313
2.1. The joint celebration of bon and Buddhism in village and state rituals	322
3. Religion, the village and its changing relations in post-1975 Sikkim	326
4. Identity in the 1990s and the revival of Buddhism in the state	334
Chapter Eleven: Conventional Buddhism and Village Religion	342
1. The case of Lopen Dugyal's return to the village	342
2. The pawo 's annual retreat	345
2.1. Day one and two: finding the 'demon'	348
2.2. Day three: expelling the 'demon'	355
3. Lopen Dugyal and the village lamas	362
Chapter Twelve: Conclusion: The Apparent Dichotomy between Bon and Buddhism	367
Glossary of recurrent terms	377
Bibliography	387
Names Index	395
General Index	397