

Contents

Notes on contributors	vi
Series preface	vii
Sarah Neal and Nicola Yeates
Chapter 1 Making social justice: ideas, struggles and responses	1
Janet Newman and Nicola Yeates
Chapter 2 Looking for social justice: welfare states and beyond	29
John Clarke
Chapter 3 Well-being, harm and work	63
Beth Widdowson
Chapter 4 'Problem' populations, 'problem' places	97
Gerry Mooney
Chapter 5 The globalisation of social justice	129
Allan Cochrane and Reece Walters
Chapter 6 Conclusion	163
Janet Newman and Nicola Yeates
Acknowledgements	180
Index	182

Chapter 2

Looking for social justice: welfare states and beyond

John Clarke

Contents

1	Introduction	30
2	Social inequalities: from normalisation to contestation	31
2.1	The natural order of things?	31
2.2	Contesting inequality, demanding justice: movements of people	33
3	Political arithmetic: counting inequality	35
4	Inventing welfare states	41
4.1	Demands for equality, justice and security	43
4.2	Compromises and settlements	45
4.3	Managing and governing populations	47
5	Expanding welfare: what sorts of social justice?	48
6	From inequality to exclusion	51
7	Beyond the state: welfare by other means	53
8	Review: equality, justice and welfare states	57
	Further reading	58
	References	59

Chapter 3

Well-being, harm and work

Beth Widdowson

Contents

1	Introduction	64
2	Well-being, harm and social justice	66
3	Care, well-being and harm	72
3.1	Care and harm	75
3.2	Care, social justice and welfare states	76
4	Work, harm and crime	79
4.1	Looking at the evidence: statistics and 'ghosts'	80
4.2	Making workplaces safe? The meatpacking industry	82
4.3	Labour mobilisations and the problem of regulation	85
4.4	Gendered work, gendered harms? Women in the service sector	86
5	Struggling for justice: work, welfare and the control of crime	91
6	Review: work, well-being and social justice	92
	Further reading	93
	References	94

Chapter 4

‘Problem’ populations, ‘problem’ places

Gerry Mooney

Contents

1	Introduction	98
2	New Orleans and Hurricane Katrina: ‘shaming America’?	100
3	Worlds apart? The problem of problem places	110
	3.1 Urban unrest: the case of the French urban periphery	112
	3.2 Bringing it all back home: the ‘problem estate’	116
4	Review: misrecognition, disrespect and the politics of fear	122
	Further reading	125
	References	125

Chapter 5

The globalisation of social justice

Allan Cochrane and Reece Walters

Contents

1	Introduction	130
2	Urbanisation and the challenge of the global slums	133
2.1	Urbanisation: harbinger of development and equality?	136
2.2	From social problems to economic opportunity and self-help	138
3	The problem of common resources	141
3.1	The problem of the global 'commons': the case of the Amazon Rainforest	141
3.2	Global markets and global corporations: jeans, flowers and environmental degradation in Kenya	144
3.3	Identifying criminal behaviour	152
4	Reframing justice?	154
5	Review: globalising social justice	157
	Further reading	159
	References	159

Chapter 6

Conclusion

Janet Newman and Nicola Yeates

Contents

1	Introduction	164
2	What's social about social justice?	166
3	Untangling 'entanglement': social justice, social welfare and crime control	168
4	Reviewing the evidence	172
5	Contestation and change	176
6	The politics of social justice	178
7	References	179