

Contents

Abbreviations	xi
---------------	----

Introduction	1
--------------	---

I. BACKGROUND AND FORERUNNERS

1. The Classical Roots of Christian Asceticism	9
(i) Sexual purity in the Graeco-Roman world	9
(ii) 'The care of the self' in the early Empire	12
(iii) The development of Christian asceticism	23
(iv) Christian asceticism becomes a mass movement and institutionalized: the role of Antony	34
2. The Classical Roots of Christian Outspokenness (παρρησία)	43
(i) Republic and Early Empire	43
(ii) Church and State: a new situation and a new problem	48
(iii) A loyal opposition	52

II. AMBROSE

3. Ambrose Writer and Preacher	57
(i) Life and letters	57
(ii) Ambrose and the ascetic movement	63
(iii) Ambrose on virgins and widows	66
(iv) Ambrose, preacher and champion of the Nicene cause	73
4. Thoughts of Ambrose on the Position of the Emperor and the Duties of the Clergy	77
(i) De officiis ministrorum	77
(ii) The Apologies for David	80

5. Ambrose in Action	85
(i) The conflict over the use of a basilica	85
(ii) Ambrose and the massacre at Thessalonica	89
(iii) The significance of the affairs of the Altar of Victory and the synagogue of Callinicum	91

III. CHRYSOSTOM

6. Asceticism in Syria and Mesopotamia	97
(i) The Syrian tradition of asceticism	97
(ii) Urban and extra-urban asceticism	105
(iii) Monks and education	109
7. The Sources for the Early Life of Chrysostom	113
(i) Chrysostom on himself	113
(ii) Pseudo-Martyrius	114
(iii) Palladius	116
(iv) Socrates: was Chrysostom for some time associated with Euagrius, son of Pompeianus?	117
8. The Early Life of Chrysostom	124
(i) When was Chrysostom born?	124
(ii) Education and conversion to ascetic life	126
9. Early Writings	133
(i) Literary works and sermons: two genres	133
(ii) Adversus oppugnatores vitae monasticae	141
(iii) De sancto Babyla, contra Iulianum et gentiles	148
(iv) Ascetic writings addressed to women: on widows and virgins	152
(v) Chrysostom's advice to male ascetics	158
(vi) Penitence and contrition	161
10. From Monk to Priest: The De sacerdotio	166
(i) Themes	166
(ii) Provenance and date of De sacerdotio	168
(iii) Chrysostom backs into the priesthood: nolo episcopari	171
(iv) Monasticism in De sacerdotio and later	173

11. Chrysostom: Preacher on Women and Marriage	177
(i) On women and marriage	177
(ii) The date and provenance of Homily 11 and some other homilies on Ephesians	181
12. Chrysostom Priest and Teacher: Asceticism for All	185
(i) Chrysostom as a preacher	185
(ii) Creation of an identity was the result, not the purpose, of preaching	190
(iii) Positive recommendations	194
(iv) Negatives and prohibitions	196
(v) The education of children	198
(vi) The Stoic programme with a difference	203
(vii) The impact of Chrysostom's sermons	204
13. Chrysostom's Attitude to the Classical City	205
(i) Vainglory (Κενοδοξία).	205
(ii) The Church in a civic emergency: Chrysostom during the Riot of the Statues	209
14. Chrysostom on Church and State	216
15. Chrysostom and the Imperial Court	224
(i) Bishop of the imperial residence	224
(ii) The Gainas affair	227
(iii) The ups and downs of Chrysostom's relationship with Eudoxia up to the Synod of the Oak	231
(iv) Eudoxia and the fall of Chrysostom	234
(v) Why did Arcadius turn against Chrysostom?	238
(vi) Did Chrysostom contemplate resistance after the Synod of the Oak?	241
(vii) Chrysostom and Eudoxia: recall and final exile	244

IV. CONCLUSION

16. Ambrose and Chrysostom Compared	251
(i) Similarities and differences	251
(ii) Ambrose and Chrysostom on priestly duties: De sacerdotio and De officiis ministrorum	254

(iii) Ambrose and Chrysostom on rulers and penitence: the homilies In Oziam and the Apologies for David	256
(iv) Why did Ambrose succeed and Chrysostom fail?	257
(v) Was Chrysostom influenced by Ambrose?	261
17. The Long-Term Influence of Ambrose and Chrysostom	265
Bibliography	277
Index	297