

Contents

Illustrations	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Contributors	xii
Introduction – Shakespeare ever after	1
Stefan Herbrechter
Shakespeare ‘after’ Shakespeare	1
Shakespeare ‘after’ theory	4
Shakespeare ‘after’ humanism	7
Life ‘after’ Shakespeare	9
Shakespeare ‘after’ technology	11
Shakespeare ‘after’ the human	12
We have never been human	14
The contributions	15
Works cited	17
Part I Reading Shakespeare ‘after’ Humanism
1 The Science of the Heart: Shakespeare, Kames and the Eighteenth-Century Invention of the Human	23
Neil Rhodes
Notes	38
Works cited	39
2 ‘a passion so strange, outrageous, and so variable’: The Invention of the Inhuman in The Merchant of Venice	41
Stefan Herbrechter
When did we become posthuman?	41
Shylock’s humanism	46
The Merchant of Venice : posthumanism and misanthropy	51
Notes	55
Works cited	56
3 Shakespeare and the Character of Sheep	58
Bruce Boehrer
Notes	73
Works cited	74

4 Homeostasis in Shakespeare	77
Gabriel Egan
Notes	92
Works cited	92
Part II 'Posthumanist' Readings
5 Care, Scepticism and Speaking in the Plural: Posthumanisms and Humanisms in King Lear	97
Andy Mousley
Notes	112
Works cited	112
6 Cyborg Coriolanus / Monster Body Politic	114
Mareile Pfannebecker
Notes	129
Works cited	130
7 Renaissance Self-Unfashioning: Shakespeare's Late Plays as Exercises in Unravelling the Human	133
Rainer Emig
Introduction	133
Humanism's alterities	134
Timon of Athens – unravelling humanism's premature success story	135
Pericles, Prince of Tyre – alien encounters	145
Working through / with / against humanism from within	153
Notes	155
Works cited	157
8 Surviving Truth (Measure for Measure)	160
Mark Robson
Notes	174
Works cited	175
Part III Hamlet, 'Posthumanist'?
9 (Post-)Heideggerian Hamlet	181
Laurent Milesi
Who's there? A thing or nothing?	181
Untimeliness revisited	184
From ek-sistence to desistance	185
Post-scriptum: posthumous, posthuman Hamlet	188
Notes	190
Works cited	192

10	Loam, Moles and l'homme: Reversible Hamlet	194
	Marie-Dominique Garnier
	Becoming Gilles Shakespeare	194
	Touching ground	196
	Between who?	197
	Letters without post: from Chronos to Aion	199
	Imp, impersonal, imp/post/hume	202
	Your rats your rations your rats rations	204
	To M.E.L.T., to T.H.A.W.	205
	Hamlet on a plateau	207
	L'homme into loam	208
	Posts and stops: from Hamlet to Henry Miller	209
	Notes	210
	Works cited	211
11	'This?': Posthumanism and the Graveyard Scene in Hamlet	213
	Ivan Callus
	'The Shakespearean Collection': novelty, posthumanism and death	213
	Truncation, beheading, recognition, (mis)identification: the graveyard scene reread	220
	Posthumanism and the graveyard scene in Hamlet	229
	Notes	234
	Works cited	236
	Afterword
12	Post-Posthumanist Me – An Illiterate Reads Shakespeare	241
	Adam Max Cohen and David B. King
	Works cited	255
	Index	256