

The International Commission of Jurists

Global Advocates for Human Rights

Howard B. Tolley, Jr.

University of Pennsylvania Press
Philadelphia

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Preface	xiii
Introduction: Human Rights NGOs, World Politics, and International Law	1
Part I. 1952–1955: Cold Warriors against Socialist Legality
1. Recruiting Free World Jurists	25
Part II. 1956–1963: Liberal Idealists for the Rule of Law
2. Organizing a Global Network	49
3. Defining the Rule of Law	68
4. Protecting Victims	79
Part III. 1963–1970: NGO Pioneers for International Human Rights
5. Building Coalitions for Global Change	97
6. Responding to Crisis	114

viii Contents

Part IV. 1970–1990: Elite Advocates for Economic and Social Justice

7. Mobilizing Advocates for Development	137
8. Setting Standards and Procedures	165
9. Enforcing Civil Liberties	187
10. Representing the Bench and Bar	218

Part V. 1990–1993: Third World Leadership for a New Order

11. Turning Forty	243
-------------------	-----

Conclusion: Politics, Law, and Human Rights NGOs	271
--	-----

Appendices

1. ICJ/CIJL National Sections and Affiliates, 1993	283
2. ICJ/CIJL Periodicals, Yearbooks, and Activity Reports	287
Notes	289
Bibliography	333
Index	345