

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	Gisèle Sapiro, Marco Santoro, and Patrick Baert
Part I	The Circulation of Paradigms and Theories	29
2	The International Circulation of Structuralism: Between Appropriations and Rejections	31
	Gisèle Sapiro and Lucile Dumont
3	The Reception of Structuralism in Argentina (1960s–1970s)	55
	Ezequiel Grisendi and Andrea Novello
4	A Case Study of the Reception of “Structuralism” in English Studies in the United Kingdom	83
	Marcus Morgan and Patrick Baert
5	The Importation of the “Frankfurt School” (and “Critical Theory”) in France	103
	Louis Pinto

6	Crossing Disciplines Across Borders: How (British) Cultural Studies Have Been Imported (and Translated) in Italy, France, and German-Speaking Countries	133
	Marco Santoro, Barbara Grüning, and Gerardo Ienna
7	The Transnational Making of a Subdiscipline: The Biarritz Conference and the Institutionalization of “Public Economics”	181
	Mathieu Hauchecorne
Part II	The International Reception of Key Thinkers	207
8	Globalizing Gramsci: The Resuscitation of a Repressed Intellectual	209
	Marco Santoro, Andrea Gallelli, and Matteo Gerli
9	On the Edge of Disciplines: Reception of Karl Polanyi in France (1974–2014)	245
	Jean-Michel Chahsiche
10	The Troubled Legitimation of Hannah Arendt in the German and Italian Intellectual Field: 1962–2015	271
	Barbara Grüning
11	From Social Theorist to Global Intellectual: The International Reception of Bourdieu’s Work and Its Effect on the Author	299
	Gisèle Sapiro
12	Foucault in Hungary: The Case of a Peculiar (Non-)Reception	323
	Balázs Berkovits

13	The Reception of a “Traveling Theory”: Edward Said’s Citations in the French Academic Publishing Space	347
	Clarisse Fordant and Mohamed Amine Brahimi
14	Can the Subaltern Speak (in French)? Reception of Gayatri Spivak in France	365
	Thomas Brisson
	Index	383