

CONTENTS

1	Introduction: Nomad-State Relationships in International Relations	1
	Jamie Levin and Joseph MacKay
2	Nomads and States in Comparative Perspective	19
	Thomas Barfield
3	The Anti-Nomadic Bias of Political Theory	45
	Erik Ringmar
4	Before and After Borders: The Nomadic Challenge to Sovereign Territoriality	63
	Jamie Levin, Gustavo de Carvalho, Kristin Cavoukian, and Ross Cuthbert
5	Standard of Civilization, Nomadism and Territoriality in Nineteenth-Century International Society	77
	Filippo Costa Buranelli
6	Frontier Energetics: The Value of Pastoralist Border Crossings in Eastern Africa	101
	John Galaty

7	Seeing the Nomads Like a State: Sweden and the Sámi at the Turn of the Last Century	123
	Martin Hall
8	African Community-Based Conservancies: Innovative Governance for Whom?	147
	Kathleen A. Galvin, Danielle Backman, Matthew W. Luizza, and Tyler A. Beeton
9	In Limbo of Spatial Control, Rights, and Recognition: The Negev Bedouin and the State of Israel	173
	Avinoam Meir
10	Imperial Chinese Relations with Nomadic Groups	197
	Joseph MacKay
11	On Being Orang Suku Laut in the Malay World	217
	Cynthia Chou
12	From Gypsies to Romanies: Identity, Cultural Autonomy, Political Sovereignty and (the Search for a) Trans-territorial State	239
	Dalibor Mišina and Neil Cruickshank
13	International Relations and Migration: Mobility as Norm Rather Than Exception	265
	Kiran Banerjee and Craig Damian Smith	